Executive Summary

Introduction

The University of California (UC) is dedicated to fostering a caring university community that provides leadership for constructive participation in a diverse, multicultural world. The University has a long history of supporting initiatives that foster an inclusive living, learning, and working environment.¹ A common recommendation offered by these initiatives was the need for a comprehensive tool that would provide campus climate metrics for students, faculty, staff, post-doctoral scholars, and trainees across the system.

To that end, the University contracted with Rankin & Associates, Consulting (R&A) to conduct a system-wide “Campus Climate” survey. The purpose of the survey was to gather a wide variety of data related to institutional climate, inclusion, and work-life issues so that the University is better informed about the living and working environments for students, faculty, staff, post-doctoral scholars, and trainees at the ten UC campuses as well as the Office of the President, the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory, and the Division of Agriculture and Natural Resources. Based on the findings, each UC campus and the three locations will develop action plans and strategic initiatives to improve the overall campus climate.

Project Structure and Process

The development of the survey instrument was a collaborative effort between R&A and a System-wide Work Team (SWT). The SWT was comprised of at least two representatives from each UC campus/location as well as representatives from student associations, employee unions, and the faculty. The UC Merced survey contained 93 questions including several open-ended questions for respondents to provide commentary. The survey was offered in English and Spanish and distributed from February 1, 2013 through March 1, 2013 through a secure on-line portal.² Confidential paper surveys were available to those who did not have access to an Internet-connected computer or preferred a paper survey.

The survey data were analyzed to compare the responses of various groups. Descriptive statistics were calculated by salient group memberships (e.g., position status, gender identity, racial identity) to provide additional information regarding participant responses. Meaningful and notable findings were included in the report based on chi-square analyses, information gleaned from the literature, and/or experiences of the consultant. Additional narrative was requested for several questions in the survey. For the purposes of this report, content analyses were conducted on questions where there was limited quantitative data.

Description of the Sample at UC Merced

UC Merced community members completed 1,796 surveys for an overall response rate of 26%. Response rates by constituent group varied: 20% for Undergraduate Students ($n = 1,085$), 36% for Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 120$), >100% for Post-Docs/Trainees ($n = 6$), 30% for Union Staff ($n = 82$), 38% for Faculty ($n = 133$), and 60% for Non-Union staff ($n = 349$). Table 1 provides a summary of selected demographic characteristics of survey respondents. The percentages offered in Table 1 are based on the numbers of respondents in the sample (n) for the specific demographic characteristic.³ Only surveys that were at least 50% completed were included in the final data set for analyses.

³ The total n for each demographic characteristic will differ due to missing data. Definitions for each demographic characteristic used for analysis purposes are provided at the conclusion of the Executive Summary.

Key Findings - Areas of Strength

1. High levels of comfort with the climate at UC Merced

- 76% of all respondents ($n = 1,364$) of all respondents were “comfortable” or “very comfortable” with the climate at UC Merced while 9% ($n = 157$) were “uncomfortable” or “very uncomfortable.”
- 78% of all respondents ($n = 1,391$) of all respondents were “comfortable” or “very comfortable” with the climate for diversity in their department/work unit/academic unit/college/school/clinical setting while 10% ($n = 170$) were “uncomfortable” or “very uncomfortable.”
- 81% of Undergraduate Students ($n = 818$), 68% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 93$), and 86% of Faculty and Post-Docs ($n = 120$) were “comfortable” or “very comfortable” with the climate in their classes, while 9% of Undergraduates ($n = 59$), 5% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 6$), and 4% of Faculty/Post-Docs ($n = 5$) were “uncomfortable” or “very uncomfortable.”

2. Faculty and Staff - Positive attitudes about work-life issues

- 73% of all Post-Doc, Trainee, Graduate/Professional Student, Staff, and Faculty respondents ($n = 513$) offered that UC Merced values a diverse faculty and 78% offered that the campus values a diverse staff ($n = 547$).
- 66% of all Post-Doc, Trainee, Graduate/Professional Student, Staff, and Faculty ($n = 466$) respondents indicated that their supervisors provided them with resources to pursue professional development opportunities and 64% felt that their supervisors provided ongoing feedback to improve their performance ($n = 452$).

3. Students - Positive attitudes about academic experiences

- 70% of Undergraduate Students ($n = 757$) and 73% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 87$) were satisfied with their academic experience at UCM.
- 66% of Undergraduate Students ($n = 715$) and 72% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 86$) reported that they were performing up to their full academic potential.

- 4. Students and Trainees – A majority of respondents found the courses offered at UC included sufficient materials, perspectives, and/or experiences of people based on a variety of personal characteristics (e.g., age, ethnicity, gender identity, marital status, race, sexual orientation).

Key Findings - Opportunities for Improvement

1. Some members of the community experience exclusionary conduct.

- 28% of respondents ($n = 511$) believed that they had personally experienced exclusionary, intimidating, offensive or hostile conduct; 11% of respondents ($n = 198$) indicated that the conduct interfered with their ability to work or learn at UCM.⁴
- Differences emerged based on various demographic characteristics including position status, ethnic identity, racial identity, and discipline of study. For example,
 - A higher percentage of genderqueer respondents and women reported experiencing this conduct as compared to men.
 - A higher percentage of LGBTQ respondents than heterosexual respondents reported experiencing this conduct.

2. Several constituent groups indicated that they were less comfortable with the overall campus climate, workplace climate, and classroom climate

- Faculty respondents were less comfortable when compared with Staff, Students and Post-Doctoral Scholar/Trainee respondents with the overall campus climate at UC Merced.
- Genderqueer respondents were less comfortable with the overall climate yet more comfortable in their in department/work unit/ academic unit/college/school/clinical settings than were men and women.
- LGBTQ respondents were less comfortable with the overall climate and less comfortable with the climate in their departments/work units than heterosexual respondents. LGBQ respondents were less comfortable in their classes in comparison to heterosexual respondents.

- White respondents were less comfortable than Underrepresented Minority respondents, Other People of Color respondents, and Multi-Minority respondents with the overall climate and the climate in their departments/work units. White respondents were more comfortable with the climate in their classes than other racial groups.

3. A small but meaningful percentage of respondents experienced unwanted sexual contact.

- 2% of respondents ($n = 43$) believed they had experienced unwanted sexual contact while at UC Merced within the last five years. Subsequent analyses of the data revealed the following:
- With regard to race, 2% of all White respondents ($n = 12$), 2% of all Underrepresented Minority respondents ($n = 15$), and 3% of Other People of Color ($n = 13$) experienced unwanted sexual contact
- Women (3%, $n = 33$) were more likely than men (1%, $n = 10$) and respondents with disabilities (3%, $n = 11$) were more likely than their nondisabled counterparts (2%, $n = 27$) to experience unwanted sexual contact.

Additional findings disaggregated by position and other selected demographic characteristics are provided in more detail in the full report.

The findings are both consistent with and slightly outside those found in higher education institutions across the country based on the work of the consultant (Rankin & Associates, 2013). For example, 70% to 80% of all respondents in similar reports found the campus climate to be “comfortable” or “very comfortable.” Seventy-six percent of all respondents in the UC Merced survey reported that they were “comfortable” or “very comfortable” with the climate at UC. Yet, 20% to 25% in similar reports believed that they had personally experienced exclusionary, intimidating, offensive and/or hostile conduct, while at UC Merced, 28% of respondents believed that they had personally experienced exclusionary, intimidating, offensive and/or hostile conduct. The results do parallel the findings of other climate studies of specific constituent groups offered in the literature (Guiffrida, Gouveia, Wall, & Seward, 2008; Harper & Quaye, 2004; Harper, & Hurtado, 2007; Hurtado & Ponjuan, 2005; Rankin & Reason, 2005; Sears, 2002; Settles, Cortina, Malley, & Stewart, 2006; Silverschanz, Cortina, Konik, & Magley, 2008; Yosso, Smith, Ceja, & Solórzano, 2009).

ⁱ Undergraduate Student refers to students who were taking classes at a UC campus when the survey was administered who had not yet completed a bachelor's degree.

ⁱⁱ Graduate/Professional Student refers to students who were taking classes at a UC campus when the survey was administered who had completed a bachelor's degree and were in one of the following statuses: non-degree, certificate/teacher credential program candidate, Master's degree student, Doctoral degree student (Ph.D., Ed.D.), and Professional degree student (e.g., MD, JD, MBA)

ⁱⁱⁱ Faculty refers to a UC employee in one of the following statuses: Faculty Administrator (e.g. Vice Provost, Dean, Department Chair, Director), General Campus Faculty, and Health Sciences Campus Faculty

^{iv} Staff refers to a UC employee in one of the following statuses: Non-Union, Union, and Other Academic Series (e.g., Librarian, Continuing Educator, Reader, Research titles)

^v Postdoctoral scholars refers to individuals holding a doctoral degree who are engaged in a temporary period of mentored research and/or scholarly training for the purpose of acquiring the professional skills needed to pursue a career path of his or her choosing. This includes both Employees and Paid-Directs.

Trainees refer to Health Science campus Residents/Fellows/Housestaff/Interns - including Post MD and Post-MD II-IV and Chief Post MD-Officer.

^{vi} Transgender was defined for this project as an umbrella term referring to those whose gender identity (a person's inner sense of being man, woman, both, or neither. One's internal identity may or may not be expressed outwardly, and may or may not correspond to one's physical characteristics) or gender expression (the manner in which a person outwardly represents gender, regardless of the physical characteristics that might typically define the individual as male or female) is different from that traditionally associated with their sex assigned at birth (refers to the assigning (naming) of the biological sex of a baby at birth). Self-identification as transgender does not preclude identification as male or female, nor do all those who might fit the definition self-identify as transgender. Here, those who chose to self-identify as transgender have been reported separately in order to reveal the presence of a relatively new campus identity that might otherwise have been overlooked.

^{vii} Genderqueer refers to a person whose gender identity is neither man nor woman, is between or beyond genders, or is some combination of genders. This identity is usually related to or in reaction to the social construction of gender, gender stereotypes and the gender binary system. Some genderqueer people identify under the transgender umbrella while others do not. Self-identification as genderqueer does not preclude identification as male or female, nor do all those who might fit the definition self-identify as genderqueer. Here, those who chose to self-identify as genderqueer have been reported separately in order to reveal the presence of a relatively new campus identity that might otherwise have been overlooked.

^{viii} The Underrepresented Minority variable includes African American/African/Black respondents, American Indian/Alaskan Native respondents, and Hispanic/Latino respondents AND individuals who checked both the Underrepresented Minority and White responses.

^{ix} The Other People of Color variable includes Asian/Asian American respondents, Middle Eastern/Southwest Asian/North African respondents, and Pacific Islanders AND individuals who checked both the Other People of Color and White responses.

^x The Multi-Minority variable includes respondents who checked any of the responses included under the aforementioned "Underrepresented Minority" and "Other People of Color" categories AND respondents who checked "Underrepresented Minority," "Other People of Color," and White.

^{xi} Questioning refers to a person who questions his or her sexual identity or gender identity and does not necessarily identify as definitively gay, for example.

^{xii} Asexual refers to a person who does not experience sexual attraction. Unlike celibacy, which people choose, asexuality is an intrinsic part of an individual.

^{xiii} The Christian Affiliation variable includes respondents who chose any Christian religious/spiritual affiliation.

^{xiv} The Other Religious/Spiritual Affiliation variable includes respondents who chose Buddhist, Confucianist, Druid, Hindu, Jain, Native American Traditional Practitioner, Pagan, Rastafarian, Scientologist, Secular Humanist, Shinto, Sikh, Taoist, Unitarian Universalist, and Wiccan.

^{xv} The Muslim variable includes respondents who chose Ahmadi Muslim, Muslim, Shi'ite, Sufi, and Sunni.

^{xvi} The Jewish variable includes respondents who chose Jewish Conservative, Jewish Orthodox, and Jewish Reform.

^{xvii} The No Affiliation variable includes respondents who chose agnostic; atheist; no affiliation; and spiritual, but no affiliation.

^{xviii} The Multiple Affiliations variable includes respondents who chose more than one spirituality/religious affiliation.

Introduction

History of the Project

The University of California is dedicated to fostering a caring university community that provides leadership for constructive participation in a diverse, multicultural world. The University has a long history of supporting initiatives that foster an inclusive living, learning, and working environment. For example, in 1993 a University-wide campus community task force offered A Declaration of Community that adopted seven principles to assess the state of community at the University. “These principles, derived from the core values which define and sustain the University, delineate both the individual's rights and responsibilities that flow from being a member of the campus community, as well as define the community's obligations to its members” (Handel & Caloss, p.2). In 2006, a University’s Board of Regents’ Study Group on University Diversity was established to examine the current state of diversity and identify actions for improving diversity at the University. The Study Group identified three key principles and policy recommendations. Acting on the initial set of recommendations, the Board of Regents affirmed the centrality of diversity to the University’s mission and the need for improvements in this area and adopted as University policy a Diversity Statement (Regents Policy 4400), which reads in part: “Because the core mission of the University of California is to serve the interests of the State of California, it must seek to achieve diversity among its student bodies and among its employees” (Parsky & Hume, 2007, p. E-1).

One of five reports produced by the Study Group, the Campus Climate Report, offered that while a “number of studies have been conducted that address climate for a specific constituent group (e.g., UCUES,⁵ NSSE,⁶ SERU,⁷ HERI⁸), or at a specific campus/location (e.g., UC Faculty Survey, UC Riverside Campus Climate Study), no data currently exist that supports a conclusive understanding of the climate at any of our campuses and the system as a whole” (Study Group on University Diversity-Campus Climate Report, p. 5). The authors stated that the University “has not conducted or reported any comprehensive assessments of campus climate...without data and comprehensive, sustained assessment, the source and significance of individual perceptions and anecdotes regarding climate cannot be quantified or understood” (Study Group on University Diversity, p. 12).

In 2008, the Staff Diversity Council and the UC Regents Study Group on Campus Climate both recommended regular climate assessments. They reiterated the findings from the 2007 report suggesting that the only system-wide data available is embedded in the UC Undergraduate Experience Survey (UCUES), an instrument which is not designed to measure campus/location climate. Despite the fact that UCUES was not intended to specifically survey campus/location climate, a small portion of the questions can be useful in beginning to understand undergraduate students’ perceptions of climate. For example, UCUES can demonstrate certain behaviors and attitudes regarding interactions with peers and faculty, perspectives on the level of tolerance on campus or at a specific location, and the impact of the UC experience on students’ appreciation for diversity, understanding of racial and ethnic differences, and awareness of their own ethnic identity. However, it was recommended that additional and more specific assessment means were needed to draw solid conclusions regarding campus/location climate for all members of the University community.

In February 2010, UC experienced a wave of incidents that generated significant attention to the need of the University to actively and collaboratively address campus/location climate challenges and complex intergroup dynamics. In early February 2010, members of a UC San Diego fraternity held an off-campus party mocking Black History Month. Later that same month at UC, a noose was discovered hanging from a lamp on a bookshelf in the Geisel Library at the University. The incidents sparked student and community demonstrations and calls for changes in the campus climate. In late February 2010, the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender (LGBT) Resource Center at UC Davis experienced acts of vandalism – the entrance to the Center was defaced with derogatory and hateful words that target the LGBT community. In response, then-President Mark G. Yudof formed a UC Advisory Council to the President on Campus

Climate, Culture, and Inclusion which included the appointment of several prominent Californians long associated with the struggle for equal rights and representatives from UC's faculty, administration, student body, alumni, and the local community. The Advisory Council was charged to identify, evaluate, and share best practices in order to ensure a welcoming, inclusive and nurturing environment across UC's campuses. The Advisory Council was asked to look broadly at other institutions, both public and private, in higher education and elsewhere, and to examine policies across the state and the nation. The President also directed each of UC's Chancellors to create similar advisory councils at the campus level, which would set metrics, monitor progress, and report regularly to the system-wide Advisory Council. While most campuses/locations already had existing bodies that do this work on an ongoing basis, then-President Yudof asked them to redouble their efforts and, in some instances, adjust their mission or composition to be more broadly inclusive.

The Advisory Council revitalized discussions on the need for a comprehensive and regularized tool that can provide campus/location climate metrics for students, faculty, and staff across the system. The Advisory Council reviewed analysis that had been conducted by a UC Office of the President committee on nearly 50 assessment tools and findings that had been conducted across the UC system which include some campus/location climate or diversity indicators, in addition to reviewing efforts by other Universities to conduct comprehensive climate studies. The review resulted in the identification of seven best practices in University campus/location climate studies:

1. Conduct a full study, not just a survey.
2. Study should be comprehensive, including all constituent groups.
3. Administer follow-up regularly.
4. Administered by an external agency.
5. Solicit significant input from internal constituencies.
6. Develop communications plan.
7. Develop action plan.

Particularly important in the review of best practices was the need for external expertise in survey administration. In the committee's assessment, administration of a survey relating to a very sensitive subject like campus/location climate is likely to yield higher response rates and provide more credible findings if led by an independent, outside agency. Staff may feel particularly inhibited to respond honestly to a survey administered by their own institution for fear of retaliation.

Following a national vetting, Rankin & Associates (R&A) was identified as a leader in conducting multiple studies examining multiple identities in higher education. Following presentations to the President and his Cabinet, the Chancellors, and the Advisory Council on Campus Climate, Culture, and Inclusion, the UC Office of the President contracted with R&A to facilitate a system-wide climate assessment.

The system-wide assessment was further evidence of the University's commitment to ensuring that all members of the community live in an environment that nurtures a culture of inclusiveness and respect at every campus and location in the system. The primary purpose of the project was to conduct a system-wide assessment to gather data related to institutional climate, inclusion, and work-life issues in order to assess the learning, living, and working environments for students, faculty, and staff at the ten campuses, including five medical centers, the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory (LBNL), the Division of Agriculture and Natural Resources (UC ANR), and the UC Office of the President (UCOP). The study includes two major phases: 1) the gathering of data from a population survey informed by extensive campus/location community input; and 2) the development of strategic initiatives by the University (and based on the findings) to build on institutional successes, address institutional climate challenges and promote institutional change. Reports have been developed for each campus/location as well as an overall system-wide report for the University. At the beginning of the project, then-President Yudof reiterated that the findings should drive action and not just "sit on a shelf and gather dust" – that is, each campus/location will use the results to identify one to three annual, measurable actions based on study's findings to improve campus/location climate.

UC Campus Climate Assessment Project Structure and Process

As noted earlier, the first phase of the current project to examine campus climate was to gather data from a population survey informed by extensive campus/location community input. The development of the survey instrument was a collaborative year-long effort between R&A and a System-wide Work Team (SWT). The SWT was comprised of at least two representatives from each UC campus/location as well as representatives from the President's Advisory Council on Campus Climate, Culture, and Inclusion, Academic Senate, UC Students Association (UCSA), Council of UC Staff Assemblies (CUCSA), and union-represented employees. In addition, each campus/location charged a Local Work Team (LWT) to assist in the review of the draft survey instruments and their feedback was shared with R&A through the SWT meetings. R&A also reviewed surveys and reports produced at UC (system-wide and campus/location-specific) over the past two decades that included any information regarding campus/location climate. Informed by previous work of R&A that included a bank of over 200 questions and the review of previous UC surveys and reports, the SWT developed the final UC survey template.

Because of the inherent complexity of the climate construct, it is crucial to examine the multiple dimensions of climate in higher education. The conceptual model used as the foundation for this assessment of campus climate was developed by Smith (1999) and modified by Rankin (2002). The model is presented through a power and privilege lens. The power and privilege perspective is grounded in critical theory and assumes that power differentials, both earned and unearned, are central to all human interactions (Brookfield, 2005). Unearned power and privilege are associated with membership in certain dominate social groups (Johnson, 2005). Because we all hold multiple social identities we have the opportunity and, we assert, the responsibility to address the oppression of underserved social groups within the power/privilege social hierarchies on our campuses. The model is instituted via a transformational process that capitalizes on the inclusive power and privilege perspective. The model has been implemented by over one hundred campuses as a means of identifying successes and challenges with regard to climate issues.

The final survey template contained 93 questions and was designed for respondents to provide information about their personal experiences with regard to climate issues and work-life experiences, their perceptions of the campus/location climate, and their perceptions of institutional actions at the campus/location. All members of the University community (students, faculty, staff, post-doctoral fellows and trainees) were invited to participate in the survey. Individual campuses/locations also had the opportunity to add additional campus-specific questions.

University of California Merced (UCM) Project Specifics

The UCM survey was distributed from February 1, 2013 through March 1, 2013. The final UCM survey contained 93 questions, including several open-ended questions for respondents to provide commentary. This report provides an overview of the results of the campus-wide UCM survey.

Methodology

Conceptual Framework

The UC Campus Climate Assessment project defines diversity as the “variety created in any society (and within any individual) by the presence of different points of view and ways of making meaning, which generally flow from the influence of different cultural, ethnic, and religious heritages, from the differences in how we socialize women and men, and from the differences that emerge from class, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, ability and other socially constructed characteristics.”⁹ The inherent complexity of the topic of diversity requires the examination of the multiple dimensions of diversity in higher education. The conceptual model used as the foundation for this assessment of campus climate was developed by Smith (1999) and modified by Rankin (2002).

Research Design

Survey Instrument. The survey questions were constructed based on the work of Rankin (2003). The (SWT) reviewed several drafts of the survey template and UC Merced further vetted the questions to be more contextually fitting for the UC Merced population. The final UC Merced campus-specific survey contained 93 questions,¹⁰ including open-ended questions for respondents to provide commentary. The survey was designed so that respondents could provide information about their personal campus experiences, their perceptions of the campus climate, and their perceptions of UC Merced’s institutional actions, including administrative policies and academic initiatives regarding diversity issues and concerns. The survey was available in both an on-line and pencil-and-paper formats and was offered in English and Spanish.¹¹ All survey responses were input into a secure site database, stripped of their IP addresses, and then tabulated for appropriate analysis.

⁹ Rankin & Associates (2001) adapted from AAC&U (1995).

Sampling Procedure. The project proposal, including the survey instrument, was reviewed by the University's Institutional Review Board Directors. The Review Board Directors considered the activity to be designed to assess campus/location climate within the University and to inform UCOP strategic quality improvement initiatives. The IRB directors acknowledged that the data collected from this quality improvement activity may also be used for research, subject to IRB approval. Since data collected for the UC Campus Climate Assessment were collected for non-research purposes, future research projects involving use of identifiable data from the UC Climate Assessment will be eligible for expedited IRB review under category 5.

Prospective participants received a mail-merged e-mail with a personal embedded link. The link contained a personal identifier (which allowed respondents to return to the survey if not completed in one sitting) and automatically entered the respondent into an incentive prize drawing. The unique identifier tied to the respondent's username was maintained by the respective campus/location. The campus/location did not receive the raw data matched to the identifier. Rankin & Associates received the raw data with the unique identifier, but no user name or id. This process prevented any raw data from being directly linked to a participant's username. Respondents had to be 18 years of age or older to participate. Respondents were instructed that they did not have to answer questions and that they could withdraw from the survey at any time before submitting their responses. Each survey included information describing the purpose of the study, explaining the survey instrument, and assuring the respondents of anonymity. Only surveys that were at least 50% completed were included in the final data set.

The survey results were submitted directly to a secure server where any computer identification that might identify participants was deleted. Any comments provided by participants were also separated at submission so that comments were not attributed to any individual demographic characteristics.

Limitations. Some limitations to the generalizability of the data existed. The first limitation is that respondents “self-select” to participate. Self-selection bias, therefore, was possible since participants had the choice of whether to participate. The bias lies in that an individual’s decision to participate may be correlated with traits that affect the study, which could make the sample non-representative. For example, people with strong opinions or substantial knowledge regarding climate issues on campus may have been more apt to participate in the study.

Data Analysis. Survey data were analyzed to compare the responses (in raw numbers and percentages) of various groups via SPSS (version 20.0). Missing data analyses (e.g., missing data patterns, survey fatigue) were conducted for each location and those analyses were provided to the University. Descriptive statistics were calculated by salient group memberships (e.g., by gender, race/ethnicity, campus/location position) to provide additional information regarding participant responses. Throughout much of this report, including the narrative and data tables within the narrative, information was presented using valid percentages.¹² Refer to the survey data tables in Appendix B for actual percentages¹³ where missing or no response information can be found. The rationale for this discrepancy in reporting is to note the missing or “no response” data in the appendices for institutional information while removing such data within the report for subsequent cross tabulations.

Several survey questions allowed respondents the opportunity to further describe their experiences on UC Merced’s campus, to expand upon their survey responses, and to add any additional thoughts they wished. Comments were solicited to give voice to the data and to highlight areas of concern that might have been missed in the quantitative items of the survey. These open-ended comments were reviewed¹⁴ using standard methods of thematic analysis. Rankin and Associates reviewers read all comments, and a list of common themes was generated based on their judgment. Most themes reflected the issues raised in the survey questions and revealed in the quantitative data; however, additional themes that arose in the comments were noted in the comments analysis. This methodology does not reflect a comprehensive qualitative study. Comments were not used to develop grounded hypotheses independent of the quantitative data. Content analyses were offered in the narrative for the comments provided by participants in the text boxes after the following questions where there was limited quantitative data. These narratives are included in the campus/location reports but not in the system-wide report as the comments offered by participants were location-specific.

¹² Valid percentages derived using the total number of respondents to a particular item (i.e., missing data were excluded). These analyses were provided in the individual campus reports and were not included in the Aggregate report.

¹³ Actual percentages derived using the total number of survey respondents.

#8 - In the past year, have you seriously considered leaving UC Merced?

#18 - Within the last five years, have you experienced unwanted physical sexual contact at UC Merced?

#88 - Post-Docs/Trainees/Staff/Faculty Only: How does each of the following [initiatives] affect the climate for diversity at UC Merced?

#90 – Students Only: How does each of the following [initiatives] affect the climate for diversity at UC Merced?

Results

This section of the report provides a description of the sample demographics, measures of internal reliability, and a discussion of validity. This section also presents the results as per the project design. The design called for examining respondents' personal campus experiences, their perceptions of the campus climate, and their perceptions of UC's institutional actions, including administrative policies and academic initiatives regarding climate.

Description of the Sample¹⁵

1,796 surveys were returned for a 26% overall response rate. The sample and population figures, chi-square analyses,¹⁶ and response rates are presented in Table 2. All analyzed demographic categories showed statistically significant differences between the sample and the population.

- Women were over-represented in the sample.
- American Indian/Alaskan Natives and Whites were over-represented in the sample. Two categories, Pacific Islanders/Hawaiian Natives and Middle Eastern/Southwest Asian/North Africans were not identified in population but had respondents identify as such in the sample. African Americans/Blacks, Asians/Asian Americans, and Hispanics/Latinos were under-represented in the sample.
- Undergraduate students had a significantly smaller proportion in the sample than the population. All other status categories had significantly greater proportions in the sample than did the population.
- Citizenship data has not been provided for the population so tests of significance were not run.

Validity. Validity is the extent to which a measure truly reflects the phenomenon or concept under study. The validation process for the survey instrument included both the development of the survey questions and consultation with subject matter experts. The survey questions were constructed based on the work of Hurtado (1999) and Smith (1997) and were further informed by instruments used in other institutional and organizational studies by the consultant. Several researchers working in the area of climate and diversity, as well as higher education survey research methodology experts, reviewed the template used for the survey, as did the members of the UC SWT and UC Merced LWT.

Content validity was ensured given that the items and response choices arose from literature reviews, previous surveys, and input from SWT members. Construct validity – the extent to which scores on an instrument permit inferences about underlying traits, attitudes, and behaviors – should be evaluated by examining the correlations of measures being evaluated with variables known to be related to the construct. For this investigation, correlations ideally ought to exist between item responses and known instances of exclusionary conduct, for example. However, no reliable data to that effect were available. As such, attention was given to the manner in which questions were asked and response choices given. Items were constructed to be non-biased, non-leading, and non-judgmental, and to preclude individuals from providing “socially acceptable” responses.

Reliability - Internal Consistency of Responses. Correlations between the responses to questions about overall campus climate for various groups (question 55) and those that rate overall campus climate on various scales (question 54) were low to low-moderate (Bartz, 1988) and statistically significant, indicating a positive relationship between answers regarding the acceptance of various populations and the climate for that population. The consistency of these results suggests that the survey data were internally reliable (Trochim, 2000). Pertinent correlation coefficients¹⁷ are provided in Table 3.

All correlations in the table are significantly different from zero at the .01 or .05 level; that is, there is a relationship between all selected pairs of responses. For survey items asking for perception of degree of respect for the selected racial/ethnic/underrepresented groups, the response “don’t know” was treated as missing data. Therefore, responses of “don’t know” were not included in the correlation analysis.

Strong relationships (between .5 and .6) exist for three pairs of variables – between Respectful of Pacific Islanders and Positive for People of Color, and between both pairs of variables for Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual individuals. Moderately strong relationships (between .4 and .5) exist between six pairs of variables. Between both pairs of variables and Respectful of Hispanics/Latinos; between Positive for People of Color and Respectful of Asian Americans/Asians; between both pairs of variables and Respectful of Females; and between Positive for Non Native English Speakers and Respectful of Non-Native English Speakers. The remaining seven pairs showed a moderate relationship (between .3 and .4). No statistically significant relationships exist for American Indians/Alaskan Natives.

Sample Characteristics¹⁸

Table 4 depicts the respondent population by their primary position status at UCM. Sixty percent ($n = 1,085$) of all respondents were undergraduate students, and 7% ($n = 120$) were graduate/professional students. Nineteen percent ($n = 349$) of all respondents were Staff Non-Union, 5% ($n = 82$) were Staff Union, and 7% ($n = 133$) were Faculty. Respondents were required to answer the Primary Position question; however, they were not required to use the drop-down menu to specify their positions.

¹⁸ All percentages presented in the “Sample Characteristics” section of the report are actual percentages.

Note: There are no missing data for the primary categories in this question; all respondents were required to select an answer.
There are missing data for the sub-categories as indicated.

*Respondents to this status were able to select all of the sub-categories that apply.

For the purposes of some analyses, primary status data were collapsed into Undergraduate Students, Graduate/Professional Students, Staff, Faculty, and Post-Docs/Trainees¹⁹ (Figure 1). Sixty percent of all respondents were Undergraduate Students ($n = 1,085$), 7% were Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 120$), 25% were Staff ($n = 452$), 7% were Faculty ($n = 133$), and <1% were Post-Docs/Trainees ($n = 6$). Ninety-seven percent of respondents ($n = 1,742$) were full-time in their primary positions.

Ninety-six percent of Staff respondents ($n = 434$) were primarily located at the General Campus, while 1% ($n = 5$) were with Health Sciences/Medical Center. Table 5 indicates that 82% percent ($n = 372$) of Staff respondents were primarily career employees while 9% of Staff respondents ($n = 41$) were contract employees.

The majority of the sample were women (60%, $n = 1,074$; Figure 2).²⁰ Eight respondents (<1%) identified as genderqueer.²¹ Ten respondents marked “other” in terms of their gender identity and specified “gender fluid,” “homosexual,” “lady,” “myself,” “A Timberwolf,” “Are you kidding me??? What a waste of a question,” “bisexual,” “gay,” etc. Those respondents who chose to self-identify as genderqueer or transgender have been reported separately in this report in order to reveal the presence of a relatively new campus identity that might otherwise have been overlooked.

²¹ People who identify as genderqueer may consider themselves as being both male and female, as being neither male nor female, or as falling completely outside the gender binary.

The majority of respondents were heterosexual²² (85%, $n = 1,493$). Six percent ($n = 110$) were LGBQ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, or queer) (Figure 3). Two percent of respondents ($n = 27$) were questioning their sexual orientations, and 7% ($n = 118$) identified as asexual.

Responses with n's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

About 34% of Faculty members were 40 to 49 years old ($n = 44$), and 32% of Faculty members ($n = 42$) were 30 to 39 years old. Thirty-three percent of Staff ($n = 147$) were between the ages of 30 and 39, and 21% were between 40 and 49 years old ($n = 1,039$) (Figure 4).

Responses with n 's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

Sixty-four percent of responding Undergraduate Students ($n = 696$) were 18 to 20 years old.

Fifty-nine percent of responding Graduate Students ($n = 70$) were 24 to 29 years old (Figure 5).

Responses with n 's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

With regard to race and ethnicity, 26% of the respondents identified as White ($n = 460$).²³ Nineteen percent were Hispanic/Latino ($n = 334$), 16% were Asian/Asian American ($n = 286$), 3% were African American/African/Black ($n = 56$), 2% were American Indian/Alaskan Native ($n = 44$), and less than 1% were Middle Eastern/Southwest Asian/North African ($n = 16$) and Pacific Islander ($n = 8$) (Figure 6).

Respondents were given the opportunity to mark multiple boxes regarding their racial identity, allowing them to identify as bi-racial or multi-racial. Given this opportunity, many respondents chose only White (32%, $n = 572$) as their identity (Figure 7). For the purposes of some analyses,²⁴ the categories White, Underrepresented Minority²⁵ (38%, $n = 676$), Other People of Color²⁶ (27%, $n = 478$), and Multi-Minority²⁷ (2%, $n = 42$) were created.

The survey item²⁸ that queried respondents about their spiritual and religious affiliations offered 52 response choices and the option to “mark all that apply.” For the purposes of analyses in this report, respondents who chose any Christian religious/spiritual affiliation were recoded to “Christian” (45%, $n = 811$). One percent of respondents chose a Muslim²⁹ affiliation ($n = 19$) or a Jewish³⁰ affiliation ($n = 14$), and 6% chose “other” religious/spiritual affiliations³¹ ($n = 112$). Thirty-seven percent of respondents ($n = 656$) reported no affiliation³², and 6% reported multiple affiliations³³ ($n = 101$) (Figure 8). People marked “other” and wrote in comments such as “and why is this being asked?”, “Antitheism,” “Calvinist,” “Daist,” “Festivus,” “I believe in myself,” “I have a relationship with Jesus,” “Not my concern,” “Shamanism,” and “Unity Church.”

²⁹ Muslim affiliations include Ahmadi Muslim, Muslim, Shi'ite, Sufi, and Sunni.

³⁰ Jewish affiliations include Jewish Conservative, Jewish Orthodox, and Jewish Reform.

³¹ Other Religious/Spiritual Affiliations include Buddhist, Confucianist, Druid, Hindu, Jain, Native American Traditional Practitioner, Pagan, Rastafarian, Scientologist, Secular Humanist, Shinto, Sikh, Taoist, Unitarian Universalist, and Wiccan.

³² No affiliation includes agnostic; atheist; no affiliation; and spiritual, but no affiliation.

³³ Multiple affiliations include anyone who selected more than one spirituality/religious affiliation.

Subsequent analyses revealed 83% of student respondents ($n = 998$) were single, never married and 11% were partnered ($n = 130$). Sixty-two percent of employees ($n = 369$) were married or remarried, 5% ($n = 30$) were partnered, and 22% ($n = 128$) were single, never married. One percent of all employee respondents ($n = 6$) were partnered in a civil union or registered domestic partnership.

Ninety-three percent of Undergraduate Students ($n = 1,010$) and 75% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 90$) had no dependent care responsibilities (Figure 9).

Thirty-nine percent of Staff respondents ($n = 178$) and 42% of Faculty ($n = 56$) were caring for children under the age of 18 years (Figure 10). Fourteen percent of Staff ($n = 61$) and 6% of Faculty ($n = 8$) were responsible for senior or other family members. Nine percent of Faculty ($n = 12$) also reported that they were caring for dependent children over the age of 18.

Subsequent analyses revealed that 97% of all respondents ($n = 1,749$) had never been in the military. Twenty-one respondents were veterans (1%).³⁴

³⁴ Reservists, Active Military Members, and ROTC members were not presented here due to low response numbers.

Twenty-nine percent of respondents ($n = 527$) considered their political views “middle of the road.” Thirty-four percent ($n = 605$) were “far left”/“liberal,” while 10% ($n = 178$) considered themselves “conservative”/“far right” (Table 8). Twenty-one percent ($n = 385$) were undecided.

Twenty-two percent of respondents ($n = 375$)³⁵ had disabilities that substantially affect learning, working, or living activities. Six percent of respondents had low vision ($n = 105$), 5% had mental health/psychological conditions ($n = 95$), 4% had medical conditions ($n = 68$), and 3% had ADHD ($n = 56$) (Table 9).

³⁵ Some respondents indicated they had multiple disabilities or conditions that substantially affected major life activities. The unduplicated total number of respondents with documented disabilities = 375 (22%). The duplicated total ($n = 474$; 26%) is reflected in Table 9 in this report and in Table B22 of Appendix B.

Ninety-eight percent of participants who completed this survey were U.S. citizens,³⁶ 2% were Non-U.S. citizens,³⁷ and 0.9% of respondents were undocumented residents³⁸ (Table 10). Subsequent analyses revealed that of the 16 undocumented resident respondents, 14 were Undergraduate Students (<1% of all Undergraduate Student respondents). No undocumented respondents identified as Staff, Faculty, Post-Docs/Trainees or Graduate/Professional Students. Twenty-seven percent of Graduate/Professional Students were Non-U.S. Citizens.

Fifty-two percent of respondents ($n = 930$) said only English was spoken in their homes. Thirteen percent ($n = 237$) indicated a language other than English was spoken in the home, while 35% ($n = 619$) indicated that English and another language were spoken in their homes. Many of those respondents indicated that they spoke Chinese ($n > 15$), Cantonese ($n > 15$), or Spanish ($n > 135$). Some of the other respondents indicated the primary languages they spoke at home were American Sign Language, Amharic, Armenian, Bahasa Indonesia, Bengali, Burmese, Dari/Urdu, Farsi, German, Goa'uld, Gujarati, Hindu, Hmong, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Mandarin, Miene, Mongolia, Persian, Punjabi, Romanian, Russian, Serbian, Tagalog, Tigrigna, Vietnamese, etc.

³⁷ Non-U.S. Citizens included visa holders AND individuals who marked the response choices visa holder and undocumented resident.

³⁸ Undocumented Residents included those individuals who marked only the undocumented resident response choice.

About 31% of Staff respondents ($n = 142$) indicated that the highest level of education they completed was an associate's degree. Twenty-five percent had finished some graduate work ($n = 113$), 8% a master's degree ($n = 36$), and 4% had completed either a doctoral or other professional degree ($n = 16$).

Table 11 illustrates the level of education completed by students' parents or legal guardians. Subsequent analyses indicated that half of all Student respondents (50%, $n = 603$) were first-generation students.³⁹

Note: Table reports student responses only ($n = 1,205$).

Of 1,085 responding Undergraduates, 23% were first-year students/freshman ($n = 254$), 21% were second year/sophomore students ($n = 231$), 25% were third year students/juniors ($n = 266$), and 24% were fourth year students/seniors ($n = 265$). Six percent were in their fifth year or more ($n = 64$), and 5 respondents (<1%) were non-degree students.

³⁹ With the SWT's approval, first generation students included those students where both parents/guardians completed no high school, some high school, high school, or some college.

Forty-six percent of master's student respondents were first-year students ($n = 5$) (Figure 11). Thirty-nine percent of doctoral students were in their first year of doctoral studies ($n = 40$), 18% were in their second year ($n = 19$), and 13% were in their third year (or more) ($n = 13$). Eleven percent advanced to candidacy ($n = 11$), and 19% were ABD (all but dissertation) ($n = 20$). Post-Doc/Trainee Respondents' Current Year in UCM Career is not presented as the sample sizes were less than 5.

Responses with n's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

Twenty-eight percent of Undergraduate respondents ($n = 305$) identified their academic majors⁴⁰ as Biological Sciences. Sixteen percent were Psychology majors ($n = 174$), and 9% ($n = 99$) were studying Management. Seven percent were Mechanical Engineering majors ($n = 70$) and Political Science majors ($n = 71$).

Twenty percent of Graduate/Professional Student respondents⁴¹ ($n = 24$) were enrolled in Quantitative and Systems Biology, 13% ($n = 15$) in Psychological Sciences, and 10% ($n = 12$) in Environmental Systems (Table 12). Nine percent of students were in Applied Mathematics ($n = 11$), Physics and Chemistry ($n = 11$), and World Cultures ($n = 11$).

Undergraduate Students were asked to identify their “in-state” or “out-of-state” residency status. Forty-three percent of Undergraduate Students ($n = 533$) were in-state/resident students (Figure 12).⁴²

⁴² Fifty-seven percent of Undergraduate respondents ($n = 711$) did not complete this survey item.

Subsequent analyses revealed that 34% of all Undergraduate Students ($n = 371$) and 81% of all Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 97$) were employed either on or off campus. Thirty-one percent of Undergraduates ($n = 332$) and 56% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 65$) were employed on or off campus on average one to 20 hours per week. Two percent of all Undergraduate Students ($n = 25$) and 19% of all Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 22$) were employed 21 to 40 hours per week. Six percent of Graduate/Professional students ($n = 7$) worked more than 40 hours per week.

Thirteen percent of Undergraduate Student respondents ($n = 135$) and 92% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 101$) were currently the sole providers for their living/educational expenses. Eighty-seven percent of Undergraduates ($n = 892$) and 8% of Graduate/Professional students ($n = 9$) had families who were assisting with their living/educational expenses (i.e., dependent).

Thirty-nine percent of student respondents ($n = 474$) reported that they or their families have annual incomes of less than $30,000. Forty-three percent ($n = 512$) reported annual incomes between $30,000 and $99,999, 10% ($n = 119$) between $100,000 and $149,999, and 4% ($n = 51$) between $150,000 and $249,999 annually. One percent of student respondents ($n = 12$) said that they or their families have annual incomes between $250,000 and $399,999, and 1% ($n = 11$) had annual incomes over $400,000. These figures are displayed by student status in Figure 13. Information is provided for those students who indicated that they were financially independent (i.e., the sole providers of their living and educational expenses) and those who indicated that they were financially dependent on others.

Of the students completing the survey, 50% ($n = 598$) lived in off-campus housing, and 29% ($n = 344$) lived in on-campus housing (Table 12). Fifteen percent ($n = 179$) lived independently in an apartment/house and 7% ($n = 81$) lived with a family member/guardian.

Thirty-eight percent of UCM student respondents ($n = 746$) did not participate in any student clubs and organizations at UCM (Table 13). Fourteen percent ($n = 174$) were involved with Academic/Professional Organizations, 13% ($n = 161$) in Intramurals/Clubs Sports, and 11% ($n = 133$) participated in Intercultural/Multicultural Campus Community Groups.

Additional analyses also revealed that 1% of Undergraduate Students (n = 15) and no Graduate/Professional Students indicated that they were former foster-care youth.

Campus Climate Assessment Findings⁴³

The following section⁴⁴ reviews the major findings of this study. The review explores the climate at UCM through an examination of respondents' personal experiences, their general perceptions of campus climate, and their perceptions of institutional actions regarding climate on campus, including administrative policies and academic initiatives. Each of these issues was examined in relation to the relevant identity and status of the respondents.

Comfort with the Climate at UCM

The questionnaire posed questions regarding respondents' level of comfort with a variety of aspects of UC's campus. Table 15 illustrates that 76% of the survey respondents ($n = 1,364$) were "comfortable" or "very comfortable" with the climate at UCM. Seventy-eight percent of respondents ($n = 1,391$) were "comfortable" or "very comfortable" with the climate for diversity in their department/work unit/academic unit/college/school/clinical setting.

⁴³ Frequency tables for all survey items are provided in Appendix B. Several pertinent tables and graphs are included in the body of the narrative to illustrate salient points.

Figure 14 illustrates that Faculty were slightly less comfortable with the overall climate at UCM than were other groups.

Responses with n's less than 5 are not presented in the figure

Graduate/professional students were more comfortable with the climate in their departments, work units, academic units, colleges, schools, or clinical settings than were other respondents by position (Figure 15).

Responses with n's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

With regard to classroom climate, 81% of Undergraduate Students ($n = 818$) and 68% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 93$) were “comfortable” or “very comfortable” with the climate in their classes (Table 16). Eighty-six percent ($n = 120$) of Faculty and Post-Docs were “comfortable” or “very comfortable” with the climate in their classes.

When comparing the data by racial identity,⁴⁵ White respondents were least comfortable with the overall climate for diversity at UCM and with the climate in their departments, work units, academic units, colleges, schools, or clinical settings (Figure 16 - 17).

Women and Men were similarly comfortable with the overall campus climate (Figure 19).⁴⁶

Responses with n's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

⁴⁶ Transgender respondents were not included in this analysis due to the low response number.

Men respondents, however, were slightly more comfortable in their in department/work unit/ academic unit/college/school/clinical settings than were women (Figure 20).

Men and women were equally likely to be “very comfortable” or “comfortable” with the climate in their classes (Figure 21).

Responses with n's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

With respect to sexual orientation, LGBQ respondents were slightly less comfortable than heterosexual respondents with the overall climate and in their departments and work units (Figures 22 & 23).

With respect to disability status, respondents who self-identified as not having disabilities generally were more comfortable with the climate on campus and in their departments/work units. There were no differences in comfort between Students, Faculty, and Post-docs with disabilities and without disabilities with the climate in their classes (Figures 25 - 27).

Small differences existed among individuals from the various religious/spiritual affiliations regarding their comfort level with the overall climate at UCM (Figure 28 - 30). Jewish respondents were most comfortable with the climate at UCM and the climate in their departments/work units, etc.

Perceptions of Level of Respect

Forty-three percent of the respondents ($n = 757$) indicated that the overall campus climate was perceived to be “very respectful” of people from White racial/ethnic backgrounds (Table 17). The campus climate was perceived to be most respectful (“respectful”/“very respectful”) of White people (91%, $n = 1,595$), Asian people (88%, $n = 1,567$), and Hispanic/Latino (89%, $n = 1,565$). Respondents perceived the campus to be least respectful (“disrespectful”/“very disrespectful”) of African American/African/Black people (4%, $n = 77$).

Table 18 indicates that more than half of all respondents thought that the overall campus climate was “very respectful”/“respectful” of all of the campus groups listed in the table. The respondents felt the climate was most respectful (“respectful”/“very respectful”) of males (88%) and females (87%); People of Color (85%); and International students, staff, and faculty (82%). Respondents believed that the campus was least respectful (“disrespectful”/“very disrespectful”) of people from religious affiliations other than Christian (7%), people from Christian affiliations (7%), and LGBT people (7%).

Personal Experiences of Exclusionary, Intimidating, Offensive or Hostile Conduct

Within the past year, 28% of respondents ($n = 511$) believed that they had personally experienced exclusionary (e.g., shunned, ignored), intimidating, offensive and/or hostile conduct at UCM. Eleven percent of respondents ($n = 198$) said that the conduct interfered with their ability to work or learn⁴⁷ at UCM, and 17% of respondents ($n = 313$) felt the conduct did not interfere with their ability to work or learn on campus. Table 20 reflects the total number of respondents who chose response choices very often, often, sometimes, seldom, and not applicable for a particular area (i.e., academic performance, age, ancestry). Of the 511 respondents who experienced such conduct, 18% of the respondents said the conduct was “very often”/“often” based on their position at UCM ($n = 94$). Others said they “very often”/“often” experienced such conduct based on discipline of study (12%, $n = 75$), philosophical views (13%, $n = 60$), academic performance (11%, $n = 56$), age (11%, $n = 56$), religious/spiritual views (11%, $n = 54$), educational level (10%, $n = 51$), etc. (Table 20).

⁴⁷ The literature on microaggressions is clear that this type of conduct has a negative influence on people who experience the conduct even if they feel at the time that it had no impact (Sue, 2010; Yosso, Smith, Ceja, & Solorzano, 2009).

Percentages do not sum to 100 due to multiple responses.

Respondents had the option to choose "Not Applicable." Those numbers are presented in Appendix B, Table 42.

The percentages in Tables 20 and B42 are based on the total number of respondents who chose response choices very often, often, sometimes, seldom, and not applicable for a particular area (i.e., academic performance, age, ancestry).

The following figures⁴⁸ depict the responses by selected characteristics (e.g., race/ethnicity, gender, position, SES, religious/spiritual affiliation) of individuals who responded “yes” to the question, “Within the past year, have you personally experienced any exclusionary (e.g., shunned, ignored), intimidating, offensive and/or hostile (bullied, harassing) behavior at UC Merced?”

When reviewing these results in terms of race (Figure 31), 33% of White Respondents ($n = 188$), 28% of Underrepresented Minority respondents ($n = 192$), 22% of Other People of Color respondents ($n = 105$), and 33% of Multi-Minority respondents ($n = 14$) believed they had experienced this conduct. Of those respondents who believed they had experienced the conduct, 36% of Underrepresented Minority respondents ($n = 69$), Other People of Color respondents ($n = 38$), and Multi-Minority Respondents ($n = 5$) thought the conduct was based on race compared with 33% of White respondents ($n = 45$).

⁴⁸ For Figures 32 through 39, the responses were recoded into a binary variable where 1 = experienced conduct “very often,” “often,” “sometimes,” and “seldom” based on characteristics (e.g., political views, socioeconomic class, race, gender, position, sexual orientation, religious/spiritual affiliation) and 2 = did not experience conduct based on those characteristics (e.g., political views, socioeconomic status, race, gender, position, sexual orientation, religious affiliation).

² Percentages are based on n split by group for those who believed they had personally experienced this conduct.

When reviewing the data by gender (Figure 32), higher percentages of women (31%, $n = 334$) than men (24%, $n = 169$) believed they had experienced exclusionary conduct.

Responses with n 's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

Figure 32. Personal Experiences of Exclusionary, Intimidating, Offensive, and Hostile Conduct Due to Gender Identity (%)

As depicted in Figure 33, similar percentages of Staff respondents (40%, $n = 180$) and Faculty respondents (39%, $n = 52$) believed they had experienced exclusionary conduct. Many Staff (64%, $n = 115$) who believed they experienced this conduct said it was based on their position status at UCM.

Figure 33. Personal Experiences of Exclusionary, Intimidating, Offensive, and Hostile Conduct Due to Position Status (%)

Figure 34 illustrates that respondents espousing Conservative/Far Right political views (34%, $n = 60$) experienced exclusionary conduct more often than other groups, and were also most likely to attribute that conduct to their political views.

Figure 34. Personal Experiences of Exclusionary, Intimidating, Offensive, or Hostile Conduct Due to Political Views (%)

Figure 35 illustrates that a higher percentage of LGBQ respondents than heterosexual respondents believed they had experienced this conduct (36%, $n = 40$ versus 28%, $n = 415$). Of those who believed they had experienced this type of conduct, 63% of LGBQ respondents ($n = 25$) versus 20% of heterosexual respondents ($n = 85$) indicated that this conduct was based on sexual orientation.

A slightly higher percentage of Christian (30%, $n = 243$) than other religious/spiritual affiliations experienced exclusionary conduct in the past year (Figure 36). Multiple Affiliation (44%, $n = 10$) and Christian (40%, $n = 97$) respondents were most likely to attribute that conduct to religious/spiritual affiliation.

Additionally, 29% ($n = 495$) of U.S. Citizens and 23% ($n = 10$) of Non-U.S. Citizens experienced exclusionary (e.g., stigmatized, shunned, ignored), intimidating, offensive and/or hostile conduct at UCM.⁴⁹ Of the respondents who experienced such behavior, 34% ($n = 152$) of U.S. Citizens and 63% ($n = 5$) of Non-U.S. Citizens indicated it was based on country of origin. Twenty-two percent ($n = 97$) of U.S. Citizens and 67% ($n = 6$) of Non-U.S. Citizens indicated it was based on immigrant/citizen status (Figure 37).

⁴⁹ Undocumented respondents were not included here due to their low response number.

Table 21 illustrates the manners in which the individuals experienced exclusionary conduct.

Fifty-seven percent felt isolated or left out ($n = 289$), 49% felt deliberately ignored or excluded ($n = 250$), and 40% felt intimidated and bullied ($n = 203$).

Twenty-eight percent of respondents ($n = 145$) who experienced exclusionary conduct said it occurred while working at UCM job, and 27% said it happened in a meeting with a group of people ($n = 137$) (Table 22). Twenty-four percent said the incidents occurred in a UCM office ($n = 121$). Respondents who marked “other” described the specific office, meeting, building, campus location or event where the incidents occurred (e.g., cheer camp, class evaluations, dormitory, email, everywhere, FSC meeting, gossip, public area, faculty meeting, sorority, written documents, instructional laboratory setting, Latino Associated Students Club, on the bus, posters/advertising on campus, Students First Center).

Figure 38 reviews the source of perceived exclusionary conduct by status. Students were the greatest source of exclusionary conduct for Undergraduate Students, and Faculty respondents most often cited other faculty as the source of the exclusionary conduct. Graduate/Professional Students offered that other students and faculty as their greatest sources of exclusionary conduct. Staff respondents identified administrators, supervisors and other staff members as their greatest source of exclusionary conduct. Post-Docs/Trainees were not included here due to their low response number.

In response to this conduct, 49% of respondents ($n = 250$) were angry, 37% told a friend ($n = 191$), 37% felt embarrassed ($n = 188$), 35% ignored it ($n = 181$), and 31% told a family member ($n = 157$) (Table 24). While 10% of participants ($n = 49$) reported it to UCM officials, 10% did not know who to go to ($n = 51$), and 14% didn't report it for fear their complaints would not be taken seriously ($n = 69$). Fifteen percent did nothing in response to the exclusionary conduct ($n = 76$). "Other" responses included: "brought issue up to my supervisor," "contacted a lawyer," "eventually left the department," "feared retaliation," "felt so stressed contemplated depressive thoughts," "I complained and spoke with my union rep but nothing was done to stop the harassment," "I did not report as I feared being written up and losing my position," "I didn't know who to go to but spoke to someone I thought could help," "I switched units," "I told my therapist," "loneliness, despair, but above all a yearning to grow nonetheless and overcome," "people who complain get fired," "went to UCM counseling department," etc.

Observations of Exclusionary, Intimidating, Offensive or Hostile Conduct

Respondents' observations of others experiencing exclusionary conduct may also contribute to their perceptions of campus climate. Twenty-six percent of the participants ($n = 474$) observed conduct or communications directed towards a person or group of people at UCM that they believe created an exclusionary, intimidating, offensive and/or hostile working or learning environment within the past year. Most of the observed exclusionary conduct was based on religious/spiritual views (23%, $n = 107$), position (17%, $n = 82$), and gender identity (17%, $n = 81$).

Figures 40 through 42 separate by demographic categories (i.e., race/ethnicity, religious/spiritual affiliation, political views, sexual identity, gender, disability status, citizen status, and position status) the responses of those individuals who observed exclusionary conduct within the past year.

Forty-three percent of Multi-Minority respondents ($n = 18$) and 41% ($n = 41$) of respondents with Multiple Religious Affiliations observed conduct or communications directed towards a person or group of people at UCM that created an exclusionary, intimidating, offensive and/or hostile working or learning environment within the past year (Figure 39).

Figure 39. Observed Exclusionary, Intimidating, Offensive, or Hostile Conduct by Race, Religious Affiliation, and Political Affiliation (%)

Genderqueer respondents (63%, $n = 5$) were most likely to have observed exclusionary conduct when compared with other groups (Figure 40). LGBTQ respondents (39%, $n = 43$) were more likely than their heterosexual counterparts (26%, $n = 383$) to observe exclusionary conduct; respondents with disabilities (33%, $n = 123$) were more likely than their non-disabled counterparts (24%, $n = 325$); and U.S. Citizens (27%, $n = 461$) were more likely than their Non-U.S. Citizen (16%, $n = 7$).

Forty-six percent ($n = 219$) of respondents who observed exclusionary conduct said the targets of the conduct were students. Other respondents identified staff members (23%, $n = 107$), co-workers (19%, $n = 88$), or friends (15%, $n = 71$).

Respondents who observed exclusionary conduct directed at others said students were also the sources of the conduct (30%, $n = 140$). Respondents identified additional sources as administrators (17%, $n = 82$), faculty members (14%, $n = 67$), staff members (11%, $n = 50$), and co-workers (10%, $n = 48$), etc.

Table 28 illustrates participants' reactions to this exclusionary conduct. Respondents most often felt angry (43%, $n = 205$) and embarrassed (32%, $n = 153$). Twenty-nine percent ($n = 137$) told a friend while 22% ($n = 105$) did nothing and 17% ($n = 79$) ignored it. Experiences of Unwanted Sexual Contact Within the last 5 years, 43 people (2%) believed they had experienced unwanted sexual contact⁵⁰ while at UCM. Of the 43 respondents, 37 were Students (3% of all Students) and five were Staff (1% of all Staff). Subsequent analyses of the data suggest that 2% ($n = 12$) of all White respondents, 2% ($n = 15$) of all Underrepresented Minority respondents, and 3% ($n = 13$) of Other People of Color respondents experienced unwanted sexual contact. Two percent of heterosexual respondents ($n = 32$) experienced unwanted sexual contact; respondents with disabilities (3%, $n = 11$) were more likely than their nondisabled counterparts (2%, $n = 27$); and, women (3%, $n = 33$) were more likely than men (1%, $n = 10$).

Fourteen respondents offered additional comments about their experiences of unwanted sexual contact, most describing the event(s) in some detail. Two respondents indicated alcohol was involved in the incident (i.e., “A girl sexually assaulted me when I was too drunk to defend myself”; “I was pretty intoxicated and neither said no or yes but immediately regretted the experience afterward”); others shared comments such as “it didn’t go too far, I was just uncomfortable, and now that person is gone anyways”; “I had to resort to physical threats to stop this individual from touching me”; and, “A coworker making inappropriate comments at multiple times.” One respondent stated “Even when people try to tell you it’s not your fault that it happened, it still feels like in some way or another I asked for it to happen.”

⁵⁰ The survey defined unwanted sexual conduct as including “forcible fondling, sexual assault, forcible rape, use of drugs to incapacitate, forcible sodomy, gang rape, and sexual assault with an object.”

Summary

More than three-quarters of all respondents were comfortable with the climate at UCM and in their departments and work units.

As noted earlier, 28% of UCM respondents ($n = 511$) believed they had personally experienced at least subtle forms of exclusionary, intimidating, offensive, and/or hostile conduct in the past year. The findings showed generally that members of historically underrepresented and underserved groups were slightly more likely to believe they had experienced various forms of exclusionary conduct than those in the majority. At UCM, respondents most often experienced exclusionary conduct based on university position, discipline of study, philosophical views, academic performance, age, religious/spiritual views, and educational level. In addition, 43 respondents (2%) believed they had experienced unwanted sexual contact in the past five years at UCM.

The findings are both consistent with and fall outside of those found in higher education institutions across the country based on the work of the consultant (Rankin & Associates, 2013). For example, 70% to 80% of all respondents in similar reports found the campus climate to be “comfortable” or “very comfortable.” Seventy-six percent of all respondents in the UCM survey reported that they were “comfortable” or “very comfortable” with the climate at UC. Similarly, 20% to 25% in similar reports believed that they had personally experienced exclusionary, intimidating, offensive and/or hostile conduct. At UCM, 28% of respondents believed that they had personally experienced exclusionary, intimidating, offensive and/or hostile conduct. The results do parallel the findings of other climate studies of specific constituent groups offered in the literature (Guiffrida, Gouveia, Wall, & Seward, 2008; Harper & Quaye, 2004; Harper, & Hurtado, 2007; Hurtado & Ponjuan, 2005; Rankin & Reason, 2005; Sears, 2002; Settles, Cortina, Malley, & Stewart, 2006; Silverschanz, Cortina, Konik, & Magley, 2008; Yosso, Smith, Ceja, & Solórzano, 2009).

Faculty and Staff Perceptions of Climate

This section of the report details Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee responses to survey items regarding their perceptions of the workplace climate at UCM; their thoughts on work-life and various climate issues; and certain employment practices at UCM (e.g., hiring, promotion, and disciplinary actions).

At least half of all Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents “strongly agreed”/“agreed” that the workplace climate was welcoming for employees based on all of the characteristics listed in Table 29.

Note: Table includes faculty, staff, and post-doc/trainee responses only (n = 591).

When analyzed by demographic characteristics, the data reveal that women Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents (70%, $n = 248$) felt similarly about how welcoming their workplace climate was when compared with men Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents (71%, $n = 150$) (Figure 42).

In comparison with 78% of White Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents ($n = 256$), 69% of Underrepresented Minority Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents ($n = 94$) and 69% of Other People of Color Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents ($n = 58$) felt the workplace climate was welcoming based on race (Figure 43).

Responses with n 's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

* Agree and strongly agree collapsed into one category.

 Disagree and strongly disagree collapsed into one category.

Sixty-seven percent of LGBQ Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents ($n = 26$) and 73% of heterosexual Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents ($n = 351$) believed the workplace climate was welcoming based on sexual orientation (Figure 44).

Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents from other religious/spiritual affiliations (78%, $n = 18$) and those with No Affiliation (77%, $n = 160$) were most likely to agree that their workplace climate is welcoming based on religious/spiritual affiliations when compared with other religious/spiritual groups or those with no affiliation (Figure 45).

Figure 45. Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc, and Trainee Perceptions of Welcoming Workplace Climate Based on Religious/Spiritual Affiliation (%)

While 27% of all Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents who have not been in the military ($n = 145$) did not know how welcoming their workplaces were for employees based on their military status, 67% of Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents with military service ($n = 12$) felt the workplace climate was welcoming based on military status (Figure 47).

Figure 47. Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc, and Trainee Perceptions of Welcoming Workplace Climate Based On Military Status (%)

Seventy-five percent ($n = 418$) of U.S. Citizen Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents felt the climate was workplace welcoming based on international status. Likewise, 73% ($n = 414$) of U.S. Citizen Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents felt the climate was workplace welcoming based on immigrant/citizen status (Figure 48).

Campus Climate and Work-Life Issues

Several items addressed employees' (Faculty, Staff, Post-Docs/Trainees, and Graduate/Professional Students)⁵¹ experiences at UCM, their perceptions of specific UCM policies, their attitudes about the climate and work-life issues at UCM, and faculty attitudes about tenure and advancement processes.

Forty percent of all Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc/Trainee, and Graduate/Professional Student respondents ($n = 278$) felt that salary determinations were clear. Three-quarters of the respondents thought UCM demonstrated that it values a diverse faculty (73%, $n = 513$) and staff (78%, $n = 547$). Tables 30 and 31 illustrate responses to these questions by position, gender,⁵² race/ethnicity, disability status, and sexual orientation where the responses for these groups differed from one another.⁵³

⁵¹ For the items in Tables 30 through 33 and related narrative, the term "employee" includes all Faculty, Staff, Post-Docs/Trainees, and Graduate/Professional Students.

⁵² Transgender and genderqueer respondents were not included in these analyses as their numbers were too few to assure confidentiality.

⁵³ Religious/spiritual affiliation was also not included here as their numbers were too few to assure confidentiality.

Note: Table includes faculty, staff, post-doc/trainee, and graduate/professional student responses only (n = 711).

Thirty-four percent of Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc/Trainee, and Graduate/Professional Student respondents ($n = 239$) were reluctant to bring up issues that concern them for fear it would affect their performance evaluations or tenure/merit/promotion decisions (Table 31). Nineteen percent ($n = 131$) believed their colleagues expected them to represent the “point of view” of their identities.

Sixty-one percent ($n = 430$) were comfortable taking leave that they were entitled to without fear that it may affect their jobs/careers. More than one-third of Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc/Trainee, and Graduate/Professional Student respondents (37%, $n = 261$) believed they had to work harder than their colleagues do in order to achieve the same recognition, and 40% ($n = 82$) felt there were many unwritten rules concerning how one is expected to interact with colleagues in their work units.

Note: Table includes faculty, staff, post-doc/trainee, and graduate/professional student responses only ($n = 711$).

Several items queried Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc/Trainee, and Graduate/Professional Student respondents about their opinions regarding work-life issues at UCM. Sixty percent ($n = 418$) found UCM supportive of their taking leave, and 71% ($n = 496$) felt that UCM was supportive of flexible work schedules. Twenty percent ($n = 142$) felt that people who do not have children are burdened with work responsibilities (e.g., stay late, off-hour work, work weekends) beyond those who do have children, and 13% ($n = 93$) felt that people who have children were considered by UCM to be less committed to their jobs/careers.

Forty-nine percent ($n = 339$) felt that UCM provides available resources to help employees balance work-life needs, such as childcare and elder care. Some respondents (17%, $n = 115$) were disadvantaged by a need to balance dependent care responsibilities with professional responsibilities (Table 32).⁵⁴

⁵⁴ Post-Docs/Trainees were not included here due to the low number of responses.

More than half of all Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc/Trainee, and Graduate/Professional Student believed that they had colleagues or co-workers (74%, $n = 518$) and supervisors (65%, $n = 458$) at UCM who gave them job/career advice or guidance when they need it (Table 33).

Sixty-six percent ($n = 466$) believed their supervisors provided them with resources to pursue professional development opportunities, and 64% ($n = 452$) felt their supervisors provided ongoing feedback to help improve their performance. The majority of Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc/Trainee, and Graduate/Professional Student respondents had adequate access to administrative support (66%, $n = 465$). Seven percent of health sciences campus employees ($n = 44$) felt their patient-care load was manageable.⁵⁵

⁵⁵ The majority of respondents (92%, $n = 621$) marked “not applicable” for this question.

Perceptions of Employment Practice

Regarding respondents' observations of discriminatory employment practices, 33% of Staff respondents ($n = 149$) and 25% of Faculty respondents ($n = 33$)⁵⁶ reported they observed hiring practices at UCM (e.g., hiring supervisor bias, search committee bias, limited recruiting pool, lack of effort in diversifying recruiting pool) that they perceived to be unfair or unjust or would inhibit diversifying the community within the past year/hiring cycle (Table 34).

Note: Answered by faculty, staff, post-docs/trainees, and graduate/professional students ($n = 711$).

⁵⁶ Post-Docs/Trainees were not asked this question.

Of those who believed that they had observed discriminatory hiring, 45% said it was based on personal relationships ($n = 81$), 21% on ethnicity ($n = 38$), 19% on socioeconomic status ($n = 34$), 15% on position ($n = 27$), and 13% on age ($n = 24$) and gender identity ($n = 24$).

- By gender identity: subsequent analyses indicated that 32% of women ($n = 114$), and 30% of men ($n = 66$) believed they had observed discriminatory hiring practices.⁵⁷
- By racial identity: subsequent analyses indicated that 36% of Underrepresented Minority Faculty and Staff ($n = 50$), 31% of Other People of Color Faculty and Staff ($n = 26$), and 29% of White Faculty and Staff ($n = 98$) observed unfair or unjust hiring at UCM.
- By sexual orientation: subsequent analyses indicated that 45% of LGBTQ respondents ($n = 17$) and 31% of heterosexual respondents ($n = 152$) believed they had observed discriminatory hiring practices.
- By disability status: subsequent analyses indicated that more than one-third of Staff and Faculty with a disability (37%, $n = 36$) and 30% of respondents without a disability ($n = 137$) believed they had observed discriminatory hiring practices.

Twelve percent of Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc/Trainee, and Graduate/Professional Student respondents ($n = 525$) had observed unfair, unjust, or discriminatory employment-related disciplinary actions, up to and including dismissal, within the past year/hiring cycle. Subsequent analyses indicate that of those individuals, 32% ($n = 27$) said they believed the discrimination was based on position, 22% ($n = 19$) on age, 22% ($n = 19$) on personal relationship, 18% ($n = 15$) on ethnicity, and 14% on race ($n = 12$).

- By position: subsequent analyses indicated that 8% of Graduate Students ($n = 9$), 13% of Staff respondents ($n = 58$) and 14% of Faculty respondents ($n = 18$), had observed discriminatory disciplinary actions.
- By gender identity: subsequent analyses indicated that 12% of women ($n = 50$) and 11% of men ($n = 32$) believed they had observed discriminatory practices.

⁵⁷ Transgender respondents, genderqueer respondents, and Multi-Minority respondents were not included in these analyses due to their low response numbers.

- By racial identity: subsequent analyses indicated that 17% of Underrepresented Minorities ($n = 28$), 11% of White employees ($n = 42$), and 7% of Other People of Color respondents ($n = 9$) witnessed such actions.
- By sexual orientation: subsequent analyses indicated that 21% of LGBTQ respondents ($n = 11$) and 11% of heterosexual respondents ($n = 69$) witnessed discriminatory disciplinary actions.
- By disability status: subsequent analyses indicated that 16% of respondents with a disability ($n = 91$) and 18% of respondents without a disability ($n = 23$) witnessed such actions.

Thirty-two percent of Faculty, Staff, Post-Doc/Trainee, and Graduate/Professional Student respondents ($n = 227$) had observed unfair or unjust practices related to promotion/tenure/reappointment/reclassification at UCM. Subsequent analyses indicate several respondents believed it was based on personal relationships (37%, $n = 83$), UCM position (25%, $n = 57$), and educational level (10%, $n = 23$).

- By position: subsequent analyses indicated that 9% of Graduate Students ($n = 11$), 39% of Staff respondents ($n = 177$), 30% of Faculty respondents ($n = 39$), and zero Post-Docs/Trainees believed they had observed unfair or unjust practices related to promotion/tenure/reappointment/reclassification.
- By gender identity: subsequent analyses indicated that 34% percent of women ($n = 141$) and 29% of men ($n = 83$) witnessed discriminatory promotion/tenure/reappointment/reclassification.
- By racial identity: subsequent analyses indicated that 36% of Underrepresented Minorities ($n = 60$), 31% of White respondents ($n = 119$), and 27% of Other People of Color respondents ($n = 33$) witnessed such conduct.

- By sexual orientation: subsequent analyses indicated that 25% of LGBTQ respondents ($n = 13$) and 32% of heterosexual respondents ($n = 194$) also witnessed such conduct.
- By disability status: subsequent analyses indicated that 37% of respondents ($n = 47$) with a disability and 30% of respondents ($n = 169$) without a disability witnessed such conduct.

Faculty Members' Views on University Policies

One survey item queried Faculty members ($n = 133$) about their opinions regarding a variety of work-life issues specific to faculty work. The majority of Faculty respondents “agreed” or “strongly agreed” that the tenure/promotion process was clear (55%, $n = 73$) and reasonable (60%, $n = 78$) (Table 35). Most believed that their service contributions were important to tenure/promotion (54%, $n = 69$).

Few Faculty felt pressured to change their research agendas to achieve tenure or be promoted (19%, $n = 24$), and that their diversity-related contributions have been/will be valued for promotion or tenure (36%, $n = 46$). Almost half of Faculty respondents believed that tenure standards/advancement standards are applied equally to all faculty (47%, $n = 60$).

Forty-seven percent of all Faculty ($n = 60$) believed tenure standards and advancement standards were equally applied to all UCM faculty. Figure 49⁵⁸ illustrates that Underrepresented Minority Faculty, women Faculty, LGBTQ faculty, and Faculty with disabilities were less likely to believe that tenure standards and advancement standards were equally applied to all UCM faculty members.

Responses were collapsed into Agree (Strongly Agree/Agree) and Disagree (Strongly Disagree/Disagree) categories.

Sixty-five percent of Faculty ($n = 84$) believed their colleagues included them in opportunities that will help their careers as much as they do others in their positions (Table 36). Forty-three percent of Faculty ($n = 56$) felt burdened by service responsibilities beyond those of their colleagues. Forty-seven percent of Faculty ($n = 60$) believed they performed more work to help students than did their colleagues. Table 36 depicts faculty responses by race/ethnicity, gender, disability status, and sexual orientation.⁵⁹

⁵⁸ Multi-Minority Faculty respondents were not included in these analyses as their numbers were too low to assure confidentiality.

⁵⁹ Transgender faculty, Genderqueer, and Multi-Minority faculty were not included in these analyses as their numbers were too low to assure confidentiality.

Fifty-nine percent of faculty members (n = 77) felt their departments created climates that were responsive and supportive of family needs, including usage of family-related leave policies (Table 37). Five percent of faculty members (n = 6) have used or would use UCM policies on stopping the tenure clock for promotion or tenure. Eight percent ($n = 11$) have used university policies on taking leave for childbearing or adoption, and 11% ($n = 14$) have used university policies on active service-modified duties. Eleven percent ($n = 14$) felt that faculty members who use family-related leave policies are disadvantaged in advancement or tenure, and 28% ($n = 36$) believed that perception about using family-related leave policies differ for men and women faculty.

Faculty, Staff, and Post-Docs/Trainees Who Have Seriously Considered Leaving UCM

Forty-eight percent of Staff respondents ($n = 217$) and 47% ($n = 63$) of Faculty respondents have seriously considered leaving UCM in the past year.

Subsequent analyses indicate that:

- By gender identity: 48% of men ($n = 107$) and 47% of women ($n = 171$) had seriously considered leaving the institution.
- By racial identity: 54% of Underrepresented Minority employees ($n = 75$), 48% of Other People of Color employees ($n = 41$), and 45% of White employees ($n = 154$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.
- By sexual orientation: 68% of LGBTQ employees ($n = 27$) and 46% of heterosexual respondents ($n = 229$) had seriously considered leaving the institution.
- By disability status: 57% of employees with disabilities ($n = 57$) and 45% ($n = 209$) of employees without disabilities seriously considered leaving UCM.

More than 220 employee respondents further elaborated on why they considered leaving UCM during the past year. Some expressed disappointment with the resources for research and the lack of research rigor found at UCM: “UCM seems to be a teaching college not a research university” and there is a “lack of intellectual culture comparable to other Tier I research universities.” Another respondent echoed these sentiments: “The institution as is right now creates false expectations as a research institution. However, this is more like a teaching institution. There is no incentive for people doing research and there is no program to motivate research.” A lack of leadership was indicated as a reason by many respondents: “Effective campus leadership at all levels has been lacking, has poisoned the working atmosphere...and has left junior faculty in the breach”; “The complete lack of collegiality, leadership, trust, care, concern, value, worth, any consideration for staff at UCM. Problems are simply dismissed by those in leadership roles or glossed over”; and, “Poor leadership causing bad morale, lack of ability to make a positive difference, and lack of other opportunities to stay.”

Many respondents felt disgruntled about the lack of salary increases over the past several years and “limited options for career advancement.” Others described “nepotism and favoritism” as concerns. Some employee respondents do not feel appreciated or supported by their supervisors: “I don't have the support from top management. I feel that my work is not appreciated and compensated properly”; “I don't find the work environment at UCM supportive. I am afraid to say what I think. My lab space is too small and I worry about having access to lab space in the future. I believe would be more productive and happy elsewhere”; “I don't get the resources or support I need to provide for the instructional mission of the campus. The administration seems more content with spending money on fancy furniture and gimmicks instead of addressing real needs. There is ZERO accountability.” UCM, according to some respondents, is missing a sense of community: “I don't see team atmosphere like I imagined and also do not see growth happening in my area for advancement in the near future”; and, there is an “absence of collegiality among ‘colleagues’”. One respondent's comments touched on various complaints echoed by others: “Campus is not growing as promised. Resources lack. Campus leaders trumpet high profile goals but are unable to provide even the most basic infrastructure for our day-to-day operations.”

Summary

The results from this section suggest that most respondents felt the workplace was welcoming for a variety of UCM groups. Other People of Color Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents and Underrepresented Minority Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents were less likely than White Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents to believe the workplace was welcoming based on race. LGBTQ Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents were less likely than heterosexual Faculty, Staff, and Post-Doc/Trainee respondents to believe the workplace climate was welcoming based on sexual orientation.

UCM employees did report having observed unfair or unjust hiring (31%), unfair or unjust disciplinary actions (12%), or unfair or unjust promotion/tenure/reclassification (32%). Additionally, the majority of Staff, Faculty, Post-Docs, and Trainees believed they had support from their co-workers, and felt positively about their ability to balance work-life issues. Not surprisingly, some differences in many of the aforementioned topics existed in the responses from people from various underrepresented backgrounds and identities.

With regard to the tenure and promotion process, Underrepresented Minority Faculty, women Faculty, LGBTQ faculty, and Faculty with disabilities were less likely to believe that tenure standards and advancement standards were equally applied to all UCM faculty when compared with their majority counterparts. In addition, Underrepresented Minority employees, Other People of Color employees, employees with disabilities, and LGBTQ employees were more likely to have seriously considered leaving UCM.

Student Perceptions of Campus Climate

This section of the report is dedicated to survey questions that were specific to UCM students. Several survey items queried student respondents about their academic experiences, their general perceptions of the campus climate, and their comfort with their classes and their on-campus jobs. Some questions in this section include students only, one includes student and faculty responses, and others include student, trainee, and post-doc responses. The tables are marked accordingly.

Student Experiences of Unwanted Sexual Contact

Within the last 5 years, 43 people (2%) believed they had experienced unwanted sexual contact⁶⁰ while at UCM. Subsequent analyses indicate that of the 43 respondents, 36 were Undergraduate students (3% of all Undergraduate students).

Subsequent analyses offered in Figure 50 illustrate experienced unwanted sexual contact for Undergraduate Students by selected demographic characteristics:

- By gender identity: 4% of Women Undergraduates ($n = 28$) and 4% of Men Undergraduates ($n = 28$) experienced unwanted sexual contact.
- By racial identity: 4% of White Undergraduate Students ($n = 8$), 2% of Underrepresented Minority Undergraduates ($n = 12$), and 4% of Other People of Color Undergraduates ($n = 13$) experienced unwanted sexual contact.
- By sexual orientation 3% of heterosexual Undergraduate Students ($n = 27$) experienced unwanted sexual contact.⁶¹

No subsequent analyses were conducted for Graduate/Professional Students due to the low sample size.

⁶⁰ The survey defined unwanted sexual conduct as including “forcible fondling, sexual assault, forcible rape, use of drugs to incapacitate, forcible sodomy, gang rape, and sexual assault with an object.”

⁶¹ Multi-Minority respondents, Genderqueer respondents, Transgender respondents, and LGBQ respondents were not included due to their low response numbers.

Responses with n's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

Students' Academic Experiences

The survey asked Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs ($n = 1,211$) the degree to which they agreed or disagreed about a variety of academic experiences (Table 38). Their answers were positive. Eighty-two percent ($n = 991$) felt many of their courses this year have been intellectually stimulating. The majority were satisfied with the extent of their intellectual development since enrolling at UCM (77%, $n = 926$). Additionally, the majority of Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs felt their academic experience has had a positive influence on their intellectual growth and interest in ideas (81%, $n = 975$) and that their interest in ideas and intellectual matters has increased since coming to UCM (80%, $n = 967$).

Furthermore, 66% of Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs ($n = 804$) felt they were performing up to their full academic potential. Half of all Student, Trainee, and Post-Doc respondents felt they performed academically as well as they had anticipated they would (49%, $n = 587$) (Table 39).

The majority of Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs were satisfied with their academic experience at UCM (70%, $n = 848$). Table illustrates these data by race, gender,⁶² disability, citizenship, first-generation status, and socioeconomic status.

⁶² Transgender respondents were too few to include in these analyses.

Figure 51 illustrates the percentage of Students “strongly agreed”/“agreed” that they were satisfied with their academic experiences at UCM. With regard to race, White Student respondents (74%, $n = 171$) were more satisfied than Underrepresented Minority Student respondents (70%, $n = 376$), Other People of Color Student respondents (70%, $n = 272$), or Multi-Minority Student respondents (51%, $n = 19$). With regard to gender, 71% of men ($n = 343$) and 70% of women ($n = 496$), were satisfied with their academic experiences. Seventy-three percent of respondents without disabilities ($n = 629$) and 65% of respondents with disabilities ($n = 177$) were satisfied with their academic experiences. Similar percentages of Not First Generation respondents (71%, $n = 422$) and First Generation respondents (70%, $n = 421$) were satisfied with their academic experiences. Non U.S. Citizens (77%, $n = 27$) and Undocumented Residents (75%, $n = 12$) were more satisfied with their academic experiences than were U.S. Citizens (70%, $n = 802$).

Responses with n 's less than 5 are not presented in the figure.

Figure 51. Students Who Strongly Agreed/Agreed that they were Satisfied with Academic Experiences at UCM by Selected Demographics (%)

Eighty-nine percent ($n = 1,069$) of all Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs intended to graduate from UCM, and 10% ($n = 116$) had considered transferring to another college or university due to academic reasons.

Eighty-nine percent ($n = 959$) of all Undergraduate Students and 93% ($n = 110$) of all Graduate/Professional Students indicated that they intended to graduate from UCM. Subsequent analyses presented in Table 40 offers an examination of Undergraduate Students' intent to graduate from UC ("I intend to graduate from UC") by selected demographic characteristics.

- By racial identity, the majority of Undergraduate Students regardless of race "strongly agreed" or "agreed" that they intended to graduate from UCM (White, 90%, $n = 166$; Underrepresented Minorities, 88%, $n = 444$; Other People of Color, 88%, $n = 211$; Multi-Minority, 97%, $n = 34$).
- By gender identity, the majority of Undergraduate Students regardless of gender "strongly agreed" or "agreed" that they intended to graduate from UCM (men, 88%, $n = 373$; women, 90%, $n = 582$).⁶³
- By socioeconomic status, 89% of Low Income Undergraduate Students ($n = 533$) and 89% of Not Low Income Undergraduate Students ($n = 406$) "strongly agreed" or "agreed" that they intended to graduate from UCM.
- By generational status, 89% of First Generation Undergraduate Students ($n = 498$) and 89% of Not First Generation Students ($n = 460$) "strongly agreed" or "agreed" that they intended to graduate from UCM.
- By citizenship status, U.S. Citizen Undergraduate Students (89%, $n = 941$) and Undocumented Resident Undergraduate Students (93%, $n = 13$) "strongly agreed" or "agreed" that they intended to graduate from UCM.

⁶³ Transgender Undergraduates and Non-U.S. Citizen Undergraduates were not included here due to the low response number.

Students' Perceptions of Campus Climate

The survey asked students about the perceptions they held about the University of California climate before they enrolled on campus (Table 41). Before they enrolled at UCM, more than half of all student respondents thought the climate was “very respectful/respectful” of all of the groups listed in Table 41. They expected the campus to be most respectful of males (89%), females (89%), and People of Color (87%).

Note: Table reports student responses only (n = 1,205).

The majority of all faculty and student respondents felt that the classroom/learning environment was welcoming for students based on all of the characteristics listed in Table 42.

Subsequent analyses examining Student responses by selected demographics indicate that:

- By gender identity, 80% of women students ($n = 563$) and 74% of men students ($n = 354$) found that the classroom climate was welcoming based on gender identity.⁶⁴
- By racial identity, 89% of Multi-Minority students ($n = 31$), 82% of White students ($n = 187$), 80% of Underrepresented Minority students ($n = 425$), and 79% of Other People of Color Students ($n = 304$) found the classroom climate welcoming based on race.
- By sexual orientation, 77% of LGBTQ students ($n = 54$) and 77% of heterosexual students ($n = 750$) found that the climate was welcoming for students based on sexual orientation.
- By religious/spiritual affiliation, 100% of Jewish students ($n = 8$), 82% of Muslim students ($n = 9$), 75% of Christian students ($n = 406$), 78% of students with other religious/spiritual affiliations ($n = 69$), 72% of students with No Affiliation ($n = 313$), and 68% of students with Multiple Affiliations ($n = 42$) found that the classroom climate was welcoming based on religious/spiritual views.
- By socioeconomic status, 75% of Low Income students ($n = 517$) and 78% of Not Low Income students ($n = 366$) found that the classroom climate was welcoming based on socioeconomic status.
- By political affiliation, 78% of Far Left/Liberal students ($n = 300$) and 67% of Conservative/Far Right students ($n = 58$) found that the classroom climate was welcoming based on political views.
- By citizen status, 50% of Non-U.S. Citizen Students ($n = 17$), 67% of Undocumented Resident Students ($n = 10$), and 76% U.S. Citizen Students ($n = 861$) found the classroom climate was welcoming based on immigrant/citizenship status.

⁶⁴ Transgender respondents and genderqueer respondents were not included here due to their low response number.

One of the survey items asked Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs the degree to which they agreed with a number of statements about their interactions with faculty, students, and staff at UCM (Table 43). Eighty-eight percent of Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs ($n = 1,057$) felt valued by faculty in the classroom/learning environment, and 83% ($n = 987$) felt valued by other students in the classroom. Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs thought that UCM faculty (79%, $n = 951$), staff (78%, $n = 934$), and administrators (70%, $n = 834$) were genuinely concerned with their welfare. Forty-four percent ($n = 518$) felt faculty pre-judged their abilities based on their perception of students' identities/backgrounds. Seventy-eight percent of Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs ($n = 937$) had faculty they perceive as role models, and 66% ($n = 791$) had staff they perceived as role models. Eighty-seven percent ($n = 1,041$) had academic opportunities for success that were similar to those of their classmates.

Students Who Have Seriously Considered Leaving UCM

As noted previously, 34% of all respondents ($n = 609$) have seriously considered leaving UCM in the past year. With regard to student respondents, 27% of Undergraduate Students ($n = 292$) and 28% of Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 34$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.

Subsequent analyses of selected demographics for Undergraduate Students indicate that:

- By gender identity, 25% of women ($n = 163$) and 30% of men ($n = 126$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.⁶⁵
- By racial identity, 27% of White Undergraduate Students ($n = 49$), 29% of Other People of Color Undergraduate Students ($n = 102$), 26% of Underrepresented Minority Undergraduate Students ($n = 131$), and 23% of Multi-Minority Undergraduate Students ($n = 8$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.
- By sexual orientation, 40% of LGBTQ Undergraduate Students ($n = 23$) and 26% of heterosexual Undergraduate Students ($n = 229$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.
- By generational status, 27% of First-Generation Undergraduate Students ($n = 152$) and 27% of Undergraduate Students who were not considered first-generation ($n = 140$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.
- By citizenship status, 27% of U.S. Citizens ($n = 287$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.⁶⁶
- By socioeconomic status, 28% of Low Income Undergraduate Students ($n = 168$) and 26% of Not Low Income Undergraduate Students ($n = 118$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.
- By disability status, 34% of Undergraduate Students without disabilities ($n = 84$) and 25% of Undergraduate Students with disabilities ($n = 193$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.

Subsequent analyses of selected demographics for Graduate/Professional Students indicate that:

- By gender identity, 33% of women ($n = 19$) and 23% of men ($n = 14$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.⁶⁷
- By racial identity, 35% of White Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 17$), 18% of Other People of Color Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 7$), and 29% of Underrepresented

- By generational status, 24% of First-Generation Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 10$) and 30% of Graduate/Professional Students who were not considered first-generation ($n = 24$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.
- By citizenship status, 34% of U.S. Citizens ($n = 29$), 16% of Non-U.S. Citizens ($n = 5$), and no Undocumented Residents had seriously considered leaving UCM.
- By socioeconomic status, 27% of Low Income Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 27$) and 39% of Not Low Income Graduate/Professional Students ($n = 7$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.
- By disability status, 27% of Graduate/Professional Students without disabilities ($n = 25$) and 31% of Graduate/Professional Students with disabilities ($n = 8$) had seriously considered leaving UCM.

Students were invited to elaborate on why they seriously considered leaving UCM. Two hundred fifty-eight responded with comments. Examples of why students seriously considered leaving included “academic reasons,” major limitations (i.e., “nursing is not offered in this school”), “feeling alone and isolated on campus,” “financial difficulties,” “family problems,” the rural location of UC Merced (“it’s in the middle of nowhere”), and the university’s “lack of school spirit.” The town of Merced was described negatively by many students. Examples of such sentiments include “the town miserable at best” and “The town of Merced is a rat hole. There is almost nothing for a college student to do outside of campus.” Many respondents described wanting to go to a more “prestigious school” or one that has “more rigorous classes” and curriculum. A few respondents referred to negative experiences at UCM based on their identity (i.e., sexual identity, physical disability) as reasons for leaving. As one respondent stated, “I am a homosexual and I do not feel comfortable at all to be who I am without being judged or looked down upon. Back at home my family accepts me and I feel comfortable walking down the street holding my partners hand but here at UC Merced campus and in the surrounding area I don't."

Summary

By and large, students' responses to a variety of items indicated that they held their academic and intellectual experiences and their interactions with faculty and other students at UCM in a very positive light. The large majority of Students felt the classroom climate was welcoming for all groups of students, and most Students, Trainees and Post-Docs felt valued by faculty and other students in the classroom. Students, Trainees, and Post-Docs thought that UCM faculty and staff were genuinely concerned with their welfare. Twenty-seven percent of all students ($n = 326$) seriously considered leaving UC, while 89% ($n = 1,069$) of all students intended to graduate from UCM.

Institutional Actions

The survey asked faculty, staff, Post-Docs, and Trainees to indicate how they thought the initiatives listed in Table 44 would affect the climate at UCM. Respondents were asked to decide whether certain institutional actions positively or negatively affected the climate, or did not affect the climate. Readers will note that substantial proportions of respondents chose the “Don’t Know” response for the items in this survey question.

Less than half of all Faculty, Staff, Post-Docs, and Trainees thought providing flexibility for promotion for faculty (25%, $n = 140$) and providing recognition and rewards for including diversity issues in courses across the curriculum (30%, $n = 165$) positively affects the campus climate (Table 44). Thirty-six percent ($n = 200$) thought providing access to counseling to those who experienced harassment positively affected the climate at UCM. Many also thought that diversity training for staff (52%, $n = 287$), faculty (38%, $n = 211$), and students (55%, $n = 304$) positively affected the climate.

A number of respondents felt providing mentorship for new faculty (44%, $n = 245$) and staff (54%, $n = 301$) positively influenced the climate. Fifty percent ($n = 274$) of respondents felt diversity and equity training to search and tenure committees positively affected the climate.

Forty-three percent ($n = 233$) thought providing back-up family care would positively affect the campus climate at UCM, and 48% ($n = 262$) thought providing lactation accommodations on campus would positively influence UCM. Sixty-four percent of respondents ($n = 350$) thought providing career development opportunities for staff would positively influence the climate.

Sixty-seven (67) Faculty, Staff, Post-Docs, and Trainees provided additional commentary regarding institutional actions at UCM. Many respondents concentrated their comments on career development and their perceived lack of opportunity at UCM (e.g., “I would love career development opportunities,” “need to offer more career development for staff”). Many discussed diversity as a component in the process of hiring. Some supported it (e.g., “Including diversity-related professional experiences as one of the criteria for hiring of staff/faculty would be a huge positive for the UCM campus and hiring practices in general”) while others were not in support of it (e.g., “purposefully excluding a highly qualified individual solely for making the campus more diverse with a less qualified individual doesn't make sense to me. Choose the best person regardless of ethnicity, socioeconomic background, etc.” and “The over-emphasizing of diversity etc. has negative influence on research and hiring. We shouldn't waste our limited resource on such things”). A few respondents supported all the initiatives listed and shared sentiments similar to “All of these are important and will make a positive impact on campus climate.” Lactation accommodations were also described by some as “minimal to non-existent” and recommendations for new locations were provided.

More than half of all Students and Trainees felt the courses offered at UCM included sufficient materials, perspectives, and/or experiences of people based on all of the characteristics listed in Table 45. Readers will note that substantial numbers of respondents chose the “don’t know” response for this item.

Note: Table includes only student and trainee responses (n = 1,205).

Additionally, more than half of all students believed that all but two of the initiatives listed in Table 46 would positively influence the climate. Less than half of the student respondents felt providing diversity training for staff and faculty would positively influence the climate.

Many students ($n = 77$) elaborated on institutional actions regarding diversity and inclusion at UCM. Many of the respondents reiterated that they were not aware if any of the aforementioned initiatives were available on campus. Several respondents discussed the benefits of increasing diversity among students, faculty and staff. Examples of supportive comments included: “Increasing and promoting diversity in the campus helps students of various ethnicities and backgrounds to understand and adapt to each other's cultures and better incorporate as one as a strong campus community” and “Having more diversity and modeling the diversity is very important in influencing not only students but in the community.”

A few student respondents were less than supportive with regard to increasing the diversity of the campus population: “Increasing diversity for its own sake does not have a beneficial influence. People are supposed to be here to learn and more often the more you emphasize something the worse it becomes. Diversity does not mean that people will get along any better.” Some students provided positive feedback regarding student-faculty interactions and relationships: “The faculty is always very available and eager to speak with students. It is a nice climate” and “There is a lot of student professor mentorship that allows people to interact.” Reactions to providing diversity training were mixed among students. Some students were in favor of it (e.g., “diversity training is a good thing depending on how it is approached”) while others were not (e.g., “Forcing people to be tolerant makes them angrier and bitter, especially if you need to provide training for it. Training is a joke, it makes EVERYONE angry, and people tend to blame minorities and smaller groups for things like that, for making them "have" to go”).

Summary

In addition to campus constituents' personal experiences and perceptions of the campus climate, diversity-related actions taken by the institution, or not taken, as the case may be, may be perceived either as promoting a positive campus climate or impeding it. As the above data suggest, respondents hold divergent opinions about the degree to which UCM does, and should, promote diversity to shape campus climate.

Next Steps

Embarking on this system-wide assessment is further evidence of University of California's commitment to ensuring that all members of the community live in an environment that nurtures a culture of inclusiveness and respect in every campus and location in the system. The primary purpose of this report was to assess the climate within UCM including how members of the community felt about issues related to inclusion and work-life issues. At a minimum the results add additional empirical data to the current knowledge base and provide more information on the experiences and perceptions for several sub-populations within the UCM community. However, assessments and reports are not enough. A projected plan to develop strategic actions and subsequent implementation plan are critical. Failure to use the assessment data to build on the successes and address the challenges uncovered in the report will undermine the commitment offered to the UCM community members when the project was initiated. Therefore, each campus/location should develop strategies unique to the results of their respective assessments. Also, as recommended by previous reports (Parsky & Hume, 2007) and by this project's initiators, the assessment process should be repeated regularly to respond to an ever-changing climate and to assess the influence of the actions initiated as a result of the current assessment.

UC Merced Climate Assessment for Learning, Living, and Working

(Administered by Rankin & Associates, Consulting)

Purpose

You are invited to participate in a survey of students, faculty, staff and administrators regarding the climate at UCM. Climate refers to the current attitudes, behaviors, and standards of employees and students concerning the access for, inclusion of, and level of respect for individual and group needs, abilities, and potential. The results of the survey will provide important information about our climate and will enable us to improve the environment for learning, living, and working at UCM.

Procedures

You will be asked to complete the attached survey. Your participation is confidential. Please answer the questions as openly and honestly as possible. You may skip questions. The survey will take between 20 and 30 minutes to complete. You must be 18 years of age or older to participate. When you have completed the survey, please return it directly to the external consultants (Rankin and Associates) using the enclosed envelope. Any comments provided by participants are also separated at submission so that comments are not attributed to any demographic characteristics. These comments will be analyzed using content analysis and submitted as an appendix to the survey report. Anonymous quotes from submitted comments will also be used throughout the report to give “voice” to the quantitative data. If you wish to be entered into the incentive prize drawing, please complete the information requested on the Thank you Page on the last page of the survey.

Discomforts and Risks

There are no anticipated risks in participating in this assessment beyond those experienced in everyday life. Some of the questions are personal and might cause discomfort. In the event that any questions asked are disturbing, you may skip any questions or stop responding to the survey at any time.

Participants who experience discomfort are encouraged to contact:

For Staff:
Insight Employee Assistance Program
800-422-5322

Benefits

The results of the survey will provide important information about our climate and will help us in our efforts to ensure that the environment at UCM is conducive to learning, living, and working.

Voluntary Participation

Participation in this assessment is voluntary. If you decide to participate, you do not have to answer any questions on the survey that you do not wish to answer. Individuals will not be identified and only group data will be reported (e.g., the analysis will include only aggregate data). Please note that you can choose to withdraw your responses at any time before you submit your answers. Refusal to take part in this assessment will involve no penalty or loss of student or employee benefits.

Statement of Confidentiality for Participation

In the event of any publication or presentation resulting from the assessment, no personally identifiable information will be shared. The external consultant (Rankin & Associates) will not report any group data for groups of fewer than five individuals that may be small enough to compromise confidentiality. Instead, Rankin & Associates will combine the groups to eliminate any potential for demographic information to be identifiable. Please also remember that you do not have to answer any question or questions about which you are uncomfortable.

Statement of Anonymity for Comments

Upon submission, all comments from participants will be de-identified to make those comments anonymous. Thus, participant comments will not be attributable to their author nor to any demographic characteristics. However, depending on what you say, others who know you may be able to attribute certain comments to you. The anonymous comments will be analyzed using content analysis and submitted as an appendix to the survey report. In order to give “voice” to the quantitative data, some anonymous comments may be quoted in publications related to this survey.

Privacy and Data Usage

The consultant will provide UCOP with a data file at the completion of the project. UCOP and campuses require raw data to conduct additional analysis for administrative purposes since the consultant will provide only a high-level summary of trends and frequent themes in reports. UCOP Institutional Research will house the data indefinitely in an integrated data enterprise system called the Decision Support System (DSS). A data security and privacy protection plan is currently being developed for the DSS, but one purpose of the integrated system is to establish a very high standard of IT security and data protection and consistency in handling data.

At UCOP, the Institutional Research and the Climate Study Project Coordinator in the Immediate Office of the Provost and Executive Vice President-Academic Affairs will have access to Campus-level data via a data application tool. In addition, each Chancellor will designate and appoint a campus data coordinator, who will manage campus use of data for administrative purposes, and will maintain data use restrictions, including measures to protect confidentiality, de-identification of data, and minimum cell size as stated in the original scope of the project. The data coordinators are held to the same use restrictions, including measures to protect confidentiality, de-identification of data, and minimum cell size as stated in the original scope of the project.

Data may also be used for research purposes, but will be subject to Institutional Review Board (IRB) approval. Researchers that want to use data will submit an application to UCOP outlining the scope of the research project, and must receive IRB approval. Future research projects involving use of identifiable data from the climate assessment will be eligible for expedited IRB review under category 5.

Data may be subject to California Public Records Act requests. Raw data in its entirety could be withheld from a PRA request due to FERPA and other privacy laws that prevent the release of personally identifiable information. Due to the large number of demographic questions, each survey response will be treated as potentially individually identifiable, even though no specific identifiers will be collected. However, raw data for specific indicators would likely be subject to disclosure upon request; but still any information that could be used to directly identify an individual would be redacted from the records to protect the privacy of individual survey respondents. Data will also be used for longitudinal studies. UCOP plans to re-administer the survey in 4-5 years, and progress and trends will be analyzed based on all available data.

UC System Institutional Review Board Project Evaluation

The UC Institutional Review Board directors have reviewed the Scope of Work for the UC Climate Assessment Initiative and consider the activity to be designed to assess campus/office climate within the University of California and to inform UCOP strategic quality improvement initiatives. The IRB directors acknowledge that the data collected from this quality improvement activity may also be used for research, subject to IRB approval. Since data collected for the UC Climate Initiative are collected for non-research purposes, future research projects involving use of identifiable data from the UC Climate Assessment initiative will be eligible for expedited IRB review under category 5.

If you agree to take part in this assessment, as described in detail in the preceding paragraphs, please complete the survey and return it directly to the external consultants (Rankin and Associates) using the enclosed envelope. By submitting the survey you indicate your consent to participate in this study. It is recommended that you keep this statement for your records.

Survey Terms and Definitions

Accessibility: Refers to a site, facility, work environment, service, or program that is easy to approach, enter, operate, participate in, and/or use safely and with dignity by a person with a disability.

American Indian (Native American): A person having origin in any of the original tribes of North America who maintains cultural identification through tribal affiliation or community recognition.

Ancestry: The country, nation, tribe or other identifiable group of people from which a person descends. It can also refer to the physical, cultural or linguistic characteristics of the person's ancestors.

Asexual: A person who does not experience sexual attraction. Unlike celibacy, which people choose, asexuality is an intrinsic part of an individual.

Assigned Birth Sex: Refers to the assigning (naming) of the biological sex of a baby at birth.

Bullying: Unwanted offensive and malicious behavior which undermines, patronizes, intimidates or demeans the recipient or target.

Classist: A bias based on social or economic class.

Climate: Current attitudes, behaviors, and standards of employees and students concerning the access for, inclusion of, and level of respect for individual and group needs, abilities, and potential.

Disability: A physical or mental impairment that limits one or more major life activities.

Discrimination: Discrimination refers to the treatment or consideration of, or making a distinction in favor of or against, a person based on the group, class, or category to which that person belongs rather than on individual merit. Discrimination can be the effect of some law or established practice that confers privileges based on of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, gender, gender expression, gender identity, pregnancy, physical or mental disability, medical condition (cancer-related or genetic characteristics), genetic information (including family medical history), ancestry, marital status, age, sexual orientation, citizenship, or service in the uniformed services.

Diversity: The variety of personal experiences, values and worldviews that arise from differences of culture and circumstance. Such differences include race, ethnicity, gender, age, religion, language, abilities/disabilities, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, socioeconomic status, and geographic region, and more.

Eldercare: A person who has primary responsibility in caring for an older partner or family member.

Ethnicity: A unique social and cultural heritage shared by a group of people.

Experiential Learning: Experiential learning refers to a pedagogical philosophy and methodology concerned with learning activities outside of the traditional classroom environment, with objectives which are planned and articulated prior to the experience (internships, service learning, co-operative education, field experience, practicum, cross-cultural experiences, apprenticeships, etc.).

Family Leave: The Family Medical Leave Act is a labor law requiring employers with 50 or more employees to provide certain employees with job-protected unpaid leave due to one of the following situations: a serious health condition that makes the employee unable to perform his or her job; caring for a sick family member; caring for a new child (including birth, adoption or foster care).

Gender Identity: A person's inner sense of being man, woman, both, or neither. The internal identity may or may not be expressed outwardly, and may or may not correspond to one's physical characteristics.

Gender Expression: The manner in which a person outwardly represents gender, regardless of the physical characteristics that might typically define the individual as male or female.

Genderqueer: A person who redefines or plays with gender, or who refuses gender altogether. A label for people who bend/break the rules of gender and blur the boundaries.

Harassment: Harassment is unwelcomed behavior that demeans, threatens or offends another person or group of people and results in a hostile environment for the targeted person/group.

Homophobia: The irrational hatred and fear of homosexuals or homosexuality. Homophobia includes prejudice, discrimination, harassment, and acts of violence brought on by fear and hatred.

Intersex: A general term used for a variety of conditions in which a person is born with a reproductive or sexual anatomy that doesn't seem to fit the typical definitions of female or male.

Management and Senior Professional: One of three personnel programs at UC. MSP personnel program includes managers and directors as well as senior professionals such as staff physicians, nurse managers, high-level computer programmers, and high-level analysts.

Multiculturalism: An environment in which cultures are celebrated and not hindered by majority values and beliefs.

Non-Native English Speakers: People for whom English is not their first language.

People of Color: People who self-identify as other than White.

Physical Characteristics: Term that refers to one's appearance.

Position: The status one holds by virtue of her/his position/status within the institution (e.g., staff, full-time faculty, part-time faculty, administrator, etc.)

Professional & Support Staff: One of three personnel programs at UC. PSS is the largest personnel program and encompasses policy-covered staff subject to the Personnel Policies for Staff Members as well as staff covered by collective bargaining agreements. Titles in the PSS program include nurses, clerical/administrative staff, research assistants, analysts, computer programmers, custodians, and many others.

Racial Identity: A socially constructed category about a group of people based on generalized physical features such as skin color, hair type, shape of eyes, physique, etc.

Sexual Orientation: Term that refers to the sex of the people one tends to be emotionally, physically and sexually attracted to; this is inclusive of, but not limited to, lesbians, gay men, bisexual people, heterosexual people, and those who identify as queer.

Socioeconomic Status: The status one holds in society based on one's level of income, wealth, education, and familial background.

Social Support: The resources other people provide, including a person's perception that he or she can rely on other people for help with problems or in times of crisis. Having feelings of connectedness and being a part of a community.

Transgender: An umbrella term referring to those whose gender identity or gender expression [previously defined] is different from that traditionally associated with their sex assigned at birth [previously defined].

Transphobia: A irrational fear of transgender people [previously defined]. Transphobia includes prejudice, discrimination, harassment, and acts of violence brought on by fear and hatred.

Unwanted Physical Sexual Contact: Unwanted physical sexual contact includes forcible fondling, sexual assault, forcible rape, use of drugs to incapacitate, forcible sodomy, gang rape, and sexual assault with an object.

Please do not complete this survey more than once.

Directions

Please read and answer each question carefully. For each answer, fill in the appropriate oval. If you want to change an answer, erase it and fill in the oval of your new answer. You may decline to answer specific questions. You must answer at least 50% of the questions for your responses to be included in the final analyses.

Part 2: Work-Life

20. Please respond to the following statements.

	Strongly agree	Agree	Disagree	Strongly disagree	Not applicable
I am reluctant to bring up issues that concern me for fear that it will affect my performance evaluation or tenure/merit/promotion decision.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
My colleagues/co-workers expect me to represent "the point of view" of my identity (e.g., ability, ethnicity, gender, race, religion, sexual orientation).	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I believe salary determinations are clear.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I think that my campus demonstrates that it values a diverse faculty.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I think that my campus demonstrates that it values a diverse staff.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I am comfortable taking leave that I am entitled to without fear that it may affect my job/career.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I have to work harder than I believe my colleagues/co-workers do to achieve the same recognition.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
There are many unwritten rules concerning how one is expected to interact with colleagues in my work unit.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

21. If you would like to elaborate on any of your responses to the previous statements, please do so here.

22. As a faculty member ...

	Strongly agree	Agree	Disagree	Strongly disagree	Not applicable
I believe that the tenure/promotion process is clear.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I believe that the tenure/promotion standards are reasonable.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I feel that my service contributions are important to tenure/promotion	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I feel pressured to change my research agenda to achieve tenure/promotion.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I believe that my colleagues include me in opportunities that will help my career as much as they do others in my position.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I feel that I am burdened by university service responsibilities (e.g., committee memberships, departmental work assignments, teaching load) beyond those of my colleagues.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I perform more work to help students (e.g., formal and informal advising, sitting for qualifying exams/dissertation committees, helping with student groups and activities, providing other support) than my colleagues.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I feel that my diversity-related research/teaching/service contributions have been/will be valued for promotion or tenure.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I have used university policies on stopping the clock for promotion or tenure.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I have used university policies on taking leave for childbearing or adoption.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I have used university policies on active service-modified duties.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
In my department, faculty members who use family accommodation policies are disadvantaged in promotion or tenure.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I feel that my department creates a climate that is responsive and supportive of family needs, including usage of work-family policies.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I believe that perceptions about using work-family policies differ for men and women faculty.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I believe the tenure standards/promotion standards are applied equally to all faculty.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

23. If you would like to elaborate on any of your responses to the previous statements, please do so here.

24. Please respond to the following statements.

	Strongly agree	Agree	Disagree	Strongly disagree	Not applicable
I find that UCM is supportive of taking leave.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I find that UCM is supportive of flexible work schedules.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I feel that people who do not have children are burdened with work responsibilities (e.g., stay late, off-hour work, work week-ends) beyond those who do have children.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I feel that people who have children are considered by UCM less committed to their jobs/careers.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I feel that UCM provides available resources to help employees balance work-life needs, such as childcare and elder care.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I am disadvantaged by a need to balance my dependent care responsibilities with my professional responsibilities.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I have supervisors who give me job/career advice or guidance when I need it.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I have colleagues/co-workers who give me job/career/education advice or guidance when I need it.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
My supervisor provides me with resources to pursue professional development opportunities.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
My supervisor provides ongoing feedback to help me improve my performance.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
I have adequate access to administrative support.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
For health sciences campus employees, my patient-care load is manageable.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

Part 6: Your Additional Comments

92. This survey has asked you to reflect upon a large number of issues related to the climate at UCM and your experiences in this climate, using a multiple-choice format. If you would like to elaborate upon any of your survey responses, further describe your experiences, or offer additional thoughts about these issues and ways that the university might improve the climate, we encourage you to do so in the space provided below.

93. Please provide any additional comments you have about this survey.

Thank you for taking the UC Merced Climate Assessment for Learning, Living, and Working

You have contributed to the welfare of the UC Merced community, and your involvement will help UC Merced make changes that will enhance the campus environment.

Participants who complete the survey will be entered into a drawing for the following item provided by the Office of the President:

- Two $5,000 graduate/professional student/post-doc/trainee stipends
- Two $5,000 faculty research grants
- Five $2,000 staff professional development grants
- Two iPads for UC Merced participants

Participants who complete the survey will also be entered into a drawing for the following items provided by UC Merced:

- Five iPad Mini's
- Ten $50 University Bookstore Gift Cards

If you would like to be entered into the incentives drawing, please provide your full name, phone number, and/or e-mail address. This page will be separated from your survey responses upon receipt by Rankin & Associates and will not be used with any of your responses. Providing this information is voluntary, but must be provided if you wish to be entered into the incentives drawing.
